Need Fairer Solutions Is Kennedy Idea

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy today proposed giving the next president an arsenal of new weapons for what he called fairer dealing with national emergency labor disputes. He cited the 1959-60 marathon steel strike as an example.

Kennedy, Democratic candidate for the White House, also said the Communist challenge confronting the United States rules out any thought of cutting the steel industry work week to 32 hours in an effort to reduce unemployment in that field. He thus rejected a suggestion which had been made by David J. McDonald, president of the Steelworkers Union.

Blames President

In a campaign address prepared for that union's biennial convention, Kennedy blamed the Eisenhower administration for the joblessness of "more than 100,000 steelworkers," and for what he pictured as a national economy "wallowing in the doldrums."

Kennedy was expected to get the endorsement of the Steelworkers Union after his address. The Massachusetts senator took it for granted and in his speech text, made public in advance, expressed gratitude "for your endorsement of my candidacy."

Starting his third week of intensive campaigning, Kennedy also arranged to address the Chemical Workers Union convention here before flying on Charleston, W.Va., for a major address tonight. There he was expected to sound again his theme that the Republicans are responsible for much of the nation's unemployment.

At Kennedy's call, public officials from nine states are meeting in Charleston during the day for discussion of what to do about joblessness in areas where it is chronic. The senator plans to meet with the officials when he arrives this evening.

In his speech to the steelworkers, Kennedy dealt at length of the 116-day steel strike which was settled last January—long after President Eisenhower had invoked the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley law.

"It is time," said Kennedy, "to re-examine the applicable provisions of the Taft-Hartley law and to substitute fairer, more workable and more effective provisions for dealing with national emergency disputes."

School Bus Crashes

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—A school bus carrying about 30 children collided today with a tractor-trailer at a rural intersection near Nazareth. The bus driver was killed and 20 children were injured, none seriously.

The crash occurred as the bus was near the Leibert Elementary School in Upper Nazareth Township, about eight miles north of here.

Retired Missile Boss Blames Ike For Slow Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, retired head of the Army missile program, says President Eisenhower's military knowledge is behind the times and implies this has held back the missile program.

In an outspoken book published today, "Countdown for Decision," Medaris said:

"I do not think the situation has been helped in recent years by having a soldier in the White House. The developments in the field of military tactics and weapons since World War II have been so far-reaching that anyone whose personal experience ended shortly after that war cannot hope to be abreast of today's military needs in the really professional sense."

"Yet, having been immensely successful as a theater commander in a major war, the President is necessarily impressed with his own military knowledge and thus less inclined to listen to the advice of today's professionals."

625 Are Working At Hurcules Co., Is Area Mainstay

Hercules Powder Company's Port Ewen Plant continues as one of the area's leading industries. N. L. McLeod, works manager of the local plant, has announced that there are presently 625 persons employed in the manufacture of commercial and military detonators.

The local plant, which is an integral part of the company's Explosives Department, has been part of the local industrial picture since 1914 and grown steadily in pace with the local community. A modernization program is presently being instituted which will further improve operations.

The local Hercules plant also continues to achieve records for safe operation, and on July 31 received the company's Director of Operations Safety Award for completing 572 days without a tabular work injury. The plant has now worked over 1,900,000 injury-free man hours.

Saturday Test Is Successful as CAP Goes Into Action

Members of Civil Air Patrol throughout New York State were alerted during the weekend for their annual "Effectiveness Test" which is given each year by the United States Air Force.

Friday night, Major Sidney Lane was alerted here by radio to stand by for further orders. At this time the regular fanout alert was made to all other members of the squadron.

Early the next morning the squadron rescue unit was ordered to proceed to Webster's Field at Linlithgo, which was headquarters and operations for the Catskill Mt. Group, CAP. Major Lane was ordered to set up a communications relay point at Belleayre from which spot communications could be maintained.

Moving Date About Nov. 1

Three Auto Agencies To Change Locations

A move involving three local automobile agencies will take place about November first. The firms involved are Kingston Buick, Inc., Hayes-Mercury-Lincoln, Inc., and Parsons of Kingston, Inc.

Kingston Buick, Inc., will move its salesrooms from 2 Maiden Lane, corner of Broadway, to its main building at 10-16 Main Street where both sales and service will be housed under one roof. In addition to having the Buick agency, Kingston Buick also has the Sunbeam, Alpine, Opel and Hillman-Minor agencies. Conrad J. Gross, president of Kingston Buick, Inc., stated today that the moving program was now underway and would be completed by November first.

Taking over the salesrooms and garage at Maiden Lane and Broadway, which is being vacated by Kingston Buick, Inc., will be the Hayes-Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., moving from 301-303 Broadway.

John Hayes Jr., president of Hayes-Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., said the move was being made to the Maiden Lane location on November first to provide larger quarters for the agency which sells and services Lincoln, Mercury, Comet and English Ford cars. The new location will give larger showroom facilities as well as better shop and service quarters. Better service to customers through the central location was one of the motives which prompted the firm to move, Hayes said.

The show room and service site now occupied by Hayes-Lincoln-Mercury, Inc., was acquired about a year ago by Parsons of Kingston, Inc., local Ford, Falcon and Thunderbird agency. On being vacated by the Hayes company, the garage will be taken over by Parsons, whose agency is located across Broadway, in a program of expansion.

The former gas station property at Foxhall and Albany Avenue has been purchased by Hayes for a used car site. Application for a zoning change to permit use of the site as a used car lot, has been made. If granted the site will become the permanent used car site for the Hayes company.

Insists Move Needed On Teaching Methods

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—

The state education commissioner has repeated his threat to set up an agency to convince public schools they should experiment with teaching methods.

Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. made the remark Sunday night against a background of criticism of the content of school courses and a plea for increased state school aid.

In a speech at the annual meeting of the New York State Council of School Superintendents, Allen said:

"When our schools need to be better than ever before, we cannot assume that any practice of the past is good enough for today."

Saturday, Deane W. Malott, president of Cornell University, charged that much of what passes for education today isn't, including "bogus courses in life adjustment."

Malott made the attack on educational frills in his annual report to alumni.

Secondary school courses in chorus, woodworking and personality problems — "abominable trivialities for credit—have supplanted solid sequences in science and language and literature," he said.

To Seek Aid Increase

Meanwhile, the Education Conference Board, an organization comprising most of the major school organizations in the state, said Saturday it would seek another 15 per cent increase in state aid to education.

The group contended that many school districts were unable to meet school needs because of high local-property taxes.

Allen told the superintendents that his department was thinking of setting up a State Center for Educational Experimentation and Development, which would keep abreast of new techniques and developments in education.

Would Challenge Old Ways

The center, he said, "would serve a needling function by challenging old ways and stirring interest in new possibilities." It also would conduct research to determine how innovations would affect standards of teachers and pupils.

Allen did not specify any new methods, but called attention to a department report, "Schools of Tomorrow—Today."

Practices recommended in the report include schools without grades, aides to relieve teachers of routine chores, elementary teachers who work only in special fields, greater use of correspondence courses, television and other electronic devices.

$108 Million Asked

The Education Conference Board seeks a $108-million increase in state aid. The aid was raised by approximately $90 million in 1959.

Both Repeat 2 Themes May Get Rougher to Perk Up Interest

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—This presidential campaign begins to sound monotonous. The candidates are repeating pretty much the same two themes everywhere they go. The themes are leadership and the contest with Russia.

The only heat has been the religious issue. Neither candidate created that. It came from Protestants opposed to the Roman Catholicism of Sen. John F. Kennedy.

May Get Rougher

Since monotony can be deadly as a shotgun, it is unlikely that the candidates can continue their warmed-over arguments indefinitely. They may get rougher, and they probably will.

Or change may be forced on them these next two weeks because of what the Eisenhower administration and Premier Nikita Khrushchev do or fail to do at the United Nations in New York.

The essential reason for the unflinching campaign is that Nixon and Kennedy are arguing not so much about doing things differently as about doing them better.

Argued for Years

Their two main themes—leadership and the contest with Russia—were predictable as campaign issues long before the campaign began. Democrats and Republi-

Fidel Not Talking Yet Waits for U. N. Date; Arrival Jeered

By PETE ARTHUR

NEW YORK (AP)—Garrulous Fidel Castro says he will keep quiet until he addresses the United Nations General Assembly.

The revolutionary Prime Minister flew into New York Sunday to a boisterous welcome from his supporters, mixed later with boos and catcalls from his opposition. He smiled and waved as he left the plane and said hoarsely: "I want to salute the people of the United States."

He added: "My English, the same as the last time, is not so good. All I have to say I will say to the United Nations."

Will Ask 3 Towns About Taxes

Probe Slated on $25,000 Hike on Water Facilities

A tax increase of more than $25,000 on city water department properties in three townships since 1957 is to be investigated by a special water board committee, it was learned today.

Howard S. Pangburn, the board's president said he has named commissioners Donald R. Hyatt, the board's secretary, and Benjamin Schechter as the committee.

They will determine the reasons for the heavy increases and seek means of relief.

$76,000 This Year

Department holdings in the towns of Ulster, Kingston and Woodstock, which in 1957 were taxed at $49,331.77 will be taxed at close to $76,000 this year, it was noted today. In 1958 the tax was $55,181.25 and in 1959 it was $71,167.40.

The board, in a statement issued last October, noted that the water department's "budgetary estimates of taxes will be exceeded this year by almost 30 per cent. This increase is due principally to an increase of $13,633.88 in 1959 school taxes over the school tax levy paid in 1958."

It was then noted that the school taxes to be paid on the city lands, including reservoirs, filter plant and pipe lines "will amount to $38,038.24."

The properties involved are owned by the city, but they "are administered, maintained, and all taxes paid by the water department from operating income."

The assessment is heaviest in the Town of Ulster, Woodstock is next and that in the Town of Kingston is comparatively light.

Former Alderman - at - large John J. Schwenk has proposed that the city take steps to gain an equitable tax rate through adjustments in equalization and general tax policy to make rates comparably favorable to those in neighboring townships.

Lacey Succumbs Following Tennis Match Saturday

Edwin C. Lacey, 58, who had been an agent with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for 35 years, died suddenly early Saturday afternoon. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the Benedictine Hospital after having collapsed in his car at the finish of a tennis game in Forest Park.

Coroner Francis J. McCordie, who said no coroner's report was required because of circumstances, was told that Mr. Lacey had returned to his car immediately after a tennis game. He was taken to the hospital in a fatum ambulance and was pronounced dead at 12:20 p. m. Emergency oxygen was administered by an ambulance attendant while he was en route to the hospital.

Two daughters, Mrs. Richard Hansen, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Miss Judith Ann Lacey, of Dallas, Texas, and two grand-children survive. He was a member of the Old Dutch Church.

The funeral service will be held at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Tuesday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m., this date.

Both Have Trouble

This gave Nixon a double trouble. As part of the administration, he had to defend it. He also had to get across the idea that if elected he would be more than just a carbon copy of Eisenhower.

So he, too, did the obvious. While defending Eisenhower but trying to appear as his own man, Nixon promised to build on the Eisenhower foundation and then some.

Kennedy has to walk gingerly when he talks of the contest with Russia. He must avoid sounding defeatist while trying to say this country lags behind the Soviet effort.

Here his tactic is to promise he will throw more of the national resources into the contest.

Nixon, not a man to stay on the defensive if he can help it, does the obvious on this one.

He calls Kennedy a prophet of gloom and doom while appealing to national pride and optimism by assuring voters this country is doing just fine.

Will Welcome Serious Negotiations, He Says No Dignitaries on Hand to Greet Him; Makes Speech on Landing, Others Talk

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev arrived here today amid boos of anti-Communist demonstrators and said he would welcome "serious negotiations" with President Eisenhower at the United Nations on the East-West disarmament deadlock.

No Dignitaries There

Khrushchev encountered an official chill — no top United States or other Western dignitaries were on hand — as he stepped from the Soviet liner Baltika for an historic United Nations General assembly session. Pelting rain and lowering skies darkened the scene.

About 150 officials of Communist nations were at the dilapidated East River pier where the Baltika docked to welcome the Soviet leader.

Their ovation could not drown out the boos and cries of "murdered, murderer!" from demonstrators held back by police at some distance from the pier.

Khrushchev smiled and waved from the deck as the ship docked but appeared impatient at the time it took to moor and set up the gangplank.

Starts Speech

Scarcely was he ashore than he whipped out a 3½-page, single-spaced typewritten statement and began to read.

Three leaders of Russian satellite nations who arrived with him made speeches also. They were George Gheorghiu-Dej of Romania, Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria, and Janos Kadar of Hungary. All spoke on peace themes.

"I am not sure," said Khrushchev, "whether or not I understood correctly the latest decision of the United States government with regard to Mr. Eisenhower, the United States President, taking part in the work of the General Assembly."

The President is scheduled to address the United Nations on Thursday.

"If this does not mean a fancy speech but really constructive participation in the work of the assembly, we would welcome such a decision," Khrushchev said.

"The United States have perhaps reappraised their attitude on the assembly meeting and have also come to the conclusion that serious negotiation can be undertaken in the U.N. to reach a disarmament agreement."

Eisenhower already has served notice he has no intention of meeting with the Soviet leader unless he frees two imprisoned American RB47 fliers.

Will Not Lead

The President in announcing his intention to speak before the U.N. Thursday—a day ahead of Khrushchev—has made it clear it was a one-shot performance and that he has no intention of leading the American delegation.

Khrushchev voiced what he called his "profound respect" toward the American people.

"I retain the very best feelings from my visit to the United States last year, from my meeting with the American people," he went on. "And I have not forgotten the good impressions that I gained from talking with public and state leaders, with representatives of the U.S. business circles, with ordinary American workers, farmers, intellectuals."

Dwells on Arms

Khrushchev termed "the problem of general and complete disarmament under the appropriate strict international control" as the cardinal question of international relationship.

He said "The evil forces who want to poison the atmosphere in relations between our countries will invariably sustain a defeat."

Khrushchev spoke into a public address microphone. He paused after each sentence or two while a translator put his words into English. The complete procedure took 35 minutes.

Other Chiefs Talk

The Communist chiefs of Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria also addressed the gathering on the pier.

After the speeches, Khrushchev was sped in a black limousine, surrounded by police car escort, to the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations, at Park Avenue and 68th Street.

A continuing downpour of rain.

Freedom For Satellites, Nixon Goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today freedom must be restored in the Communist satellite world—and that this can be done without war.

The Republican presidential candidate addressed American Nationalities for Nixon-Lodge, a group of citizens with ties to foreign countries, including some now behind the Iron Curtain.

The speech opened the second week of Nixon's active campaign and came as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and satellite heads of state arrived in New York for a United Nations General Assembly meeting.

Expects Red Charges

Nixon said the Communist leaders could be expected to hurl charges against the United States and wage a propaganda campaign that the Soviet bloc is on the side of peace and progress.

To applause from his audience, some of them wearing costumes native to Poland and Lithuania, Nixon said the United States must never make deals simply to preserve its own prosperity and strength.

Nixon said some people bring

Ulster Library Gets 1,000 Books From 71 Persons

The Town of Ulster Library Association book drive has been "successful beyond the committee's greatest hopes," Mrs. Gifford Beal, committee member, said today.

She said that almost 1,000 books have been donated to the proposed library by some 71 persons.

The books range in scope from an early McGuffey Reader, which has historical significance, to several splendid collections of classics, excellent children's books, plus current best sellers and reference materials.

Edward Crosby, chairman of the committee, said today that he is "extremely gratified at the response and that the generosity of the townspeople will make the library a reality."

The pickup caravan, composed of a gaily painted horse trailer and two station wagons, will tour Eddyville, Rosendale road, Route 28 and the Sawkill road, Halcyn Park areas of the township on Saturday, Sept. 24.

The collection committee is composed of Bruce Burgher, Raymond Bellows, Edward Crosby and Gifford Beal.

Further donations will be gratefully received, Mrs. Beal said.

The committee will be happy to arrange to have the books picked up if donors will call Principal Crosby at the Lake Katrine School or Mrs. Beal.

Mrs. Michael Maxson and Mrs. Raymond Bellows will be in charge of cataloging the material.

The board will meet at 10 a. m. Saturday, Sept. 24, at the Howard Lewis barn on Flatbush road. Persons who would like to browse are invited to come to the barn Saturday morning.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Four new television series were launched over the weekend, but none did much to add interest to the new season.

There was, for instance, NBC's Shirley Temple Show. This one, quite obviously, is aimed directly at small children. But even so it's hard to figure out why the producers elected to start off with "The Land of Oz," when there's a fine motion picture called "The Wizard of Oz" available for broadcast again. Comparisons between the old movie and the new tape are inevitable, and the tape suffers by comparison. Shirley Temple played a dual role Sunday night, but even two Shirley Temples don't equal one Judy Garland.

"National Velvet," which followed on the same channel, promises to be an attractive and warm story with the same strong family appeal of the Lassie series. This one is the story of a little girl and her horse. So far, we only know that Velvet Brown, played by cute, little Lori Martin, has saved a chestnut stallion from the stockyards, and won a steeplechase riding him bare back. But it shows promise, a statement hard to make about many other new entries.

Then, also on NBC, came the "Tab Hunter Show." Until recently this was called "Bachelor at Large" and that pretty well sums up the plot. The pattern of the first show is embarrassingly reminiscent of the old "Bob Cummings Show" except that the gay blade is a cartoonist and his comical side kick is a playboy millionaire. You can imagine the complications these two are going to have with pretty girls each week. You can, in fact, almost write the scripts yourselves.

"Checkmate," an hour-long suspense series, made its debut on CBS Saturday night. This one is built around the idea of a team of investigators stopping crimes before they occur. The first episode concerned a woman who appealed to them to prevent her own murder. Either I'm seeing too many of these things or they're not being very subtle but I had the plot figured after the first five minutes. This one, however, is nicely produced and has some good performers. Anne Baxter was the first guest star.

Health for All

Watch Out For This One!

Public health officials are worried. In the first five months of this year, there were 50 per cent more cases of hepatitis than during the same period last year. And the Public Health Service knows very well that its figures don't tell the complete story. There's no reason to expect a real epidemic, perhaps, but good reason for everyone to learn something about this illness.

Hepatitis, a disease which attacks the liver, is baffling to medical science and miserable for the victim. A virus causes hepatitis, but nobody's been able to grow it in the laboratory, which means no vaccine can be developed for the present.

Hepatitis is highly contagious, spreading through infected food, milk, and water, and by touch. It can take anywhere from 10 days to almost two months from the time you pick up the bug until the first symptoms appear. When they do, they include fever and chills, headache, tiredness, aching muscles, loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting and abdominal pain. After about a week of this, the skin and the whites of the eyes may turn yellow with jaundice.

Jaundice lasts about a week or 10 days. But hepatitis isn't through with its victim yet. The patient is still thoroughly ill, and so infectious that he must remain in isolation for at least two weeks more—about a month altogether.

After that he is still likely to be ill for another two weeks. Then a slow convalescence begins. It is not at all unusual for hepatitis to knock its victims out for three or four months. However, the disease rarely kills its victims.

There's no drug cure for hepatitis. Bedrest and diet is all medicine has to offer right now. Partial protection against hepatitis is possible with a shot of gamma globulin. Since this is better than nothing, if hepatitis appears in your house, next door, or among your friends, go to your doctor promptly for his advice.

Cattaraugus Has 23rd Polio Case

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP)—Cattaraugus County, in the midst of what is described as a mild polio epidemic, counted its 23rd case of the year over the weekend.

Three new cases were confirmed Friday and two Saturday by Dr. Ian D. Mc Laren, the county health officer, who labeled the new outbreak a mild epidemic. He said two of the more recent cases were bulbar polio.

The Southwestern New York county has had a total of 21 cases since July 1. The county's overall total of 23 accounts for almost a fourth of the 94 cases reported in 57 counties outside New York City this year.

GETTING AND SPENDING IN THE U.S.A.

THE PERSONAL INCOME DOLLAR—Comparison between how Americans spend a dollar today and how we spent it 30 years ago reveals some surprising facts. We're spending less out of each dollar today for food, clothing and shelter and most services. (The total number of dollars is higher, however, because we have more dollars to spend.) Spending for transportation and household goods is the same. Only taxes and automobile costs are proportionately higher than in 1929. Data from Morgan Guarantee Trust Co.

2 New York City Men Get Youth Division Jobs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Two New York City law-enforcement officials have been named deputy directors of the state's recently established Division for Youth. Lt. William M. Hambrecht, 48, of Jackson Heights, a police officer, and Milton L. Luger, 35, of Bayside, city correction department rehabilitation director, were appointed Sunday.

The posts pay $13,000 annually. The division, which superseded the State Youth Commission, was established as part of Gov. Rockefeller's plan to reorganize the state government.

Dies at 101

FORT EDWARD, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Susan W. Powell, who celebrated her 101st birthday April 25, died in a nursing home Sunday after a brief illness.

Mrs. Powell spent most of her life in Stillwater, Saratoga County, but in recent years had lived in Fort Ann, Washington County.

Ore Carrier Freed

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—The ore carrier Murray Bay was freed Sunday in Lake St. Lawrence, where she ran aground during fog Thursday night.

The 730-foot vessel, owned by Canada Steamship Line, apparently was not damaged, her officers said.

The carrier, which did not obstruct traffic while grounded near the Iroquois Lock, continued through the Seaway with an ore cargo for Hamilton, Ont.

Four Are Facing Murder Charges In Street Shooting

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Three brothers and a companion were held for first-degree murder today after a midnight street shooting on the city's South Side.

The victim, Edward Thomas, 29, was shot as he stood on the front porch of his home and defied the four men and a small crowd they brought with them, police said.

Thomas was a Negro, as are the four charged with the murder.

Two of the brothers said Thomas molested their wives just before the shooting Sunday, police said. Police rounded up 11 persons in all. Three were held as accessories after the fact, two as material witnesses, and two on vagrancy charges.

Dist. Atty. Harry Rosenthal said murder charges were placed against all four because they went to the house with the intent to kill. He said none would say who pulled the trigger.

The four are C. J. Gaines, 24, Walter Gaines, 36, James Gaines, 30, and Isaiah Jones, 21, all of Rochester.

Defines Intelligentsia

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—State Senate Majority Leader Walter Mahoney says a "crackpot intelligentsia" surrounds Democratic presidential candidate John Kennedy and his running mate, Lyndon Johnson.

Mahoney's remark was apparently directed at some of the leading Democratic advisors. Several are college professors and writers.

Mahoney said he defines "intelligentsia" as "people who have been educated beyond their intelligence."

The Buffalo Republican spoke at a campaign meeting of the Eighth Judicial District of Federated Women's Republican Clubs.

Man Killed in Fall

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—The body of a man who apparently fell from a retaining wall into the Niagara River Gorge was found Saturday on a ledge in the gorge.

Police tentatively identified him as George Waite, about 55. His address was not determined immediately.

The man presumably fell from the wall, about 3,000 feet south of the American Falls, sometime last week, police said.

Saugerties Child Suffers Injuries When Hit by Car

A six-year-old girl who Saugerties police said was struck by a car on West Bridge Street in that village Friday night, was reported in good condition by Benedictine Hospital authorities.

According to Patrolman Jack Washburn, Hans Jorgensen of Centerville was driving his 1959 sedan south on West Bridge Street when the Krom girl ran from behind a northbound vehicle directly in front of his car. He applied brakes but could not avoid hitting the child, Washburn said.

Dr. Robert A. McCaig of West Bridge Street treated the girl at the scene and ordered her removed to Benedictine Hospital. The mishap occurred at about 7:55 p. m.

IBM Names Two as Managers

JAMES TURNER

JOHN KEELEY

Two Hurley residents were appointed as development engineers and managers in the IBM Federal Systems Division laboratory here according to announcement by Henry E. Cooley, manager of the Kingston lab.

James M. Turner Jr., has been named development engineer and manager of diagnostic engineering and John F. Keeley of Hurley as development engineer and manager of the air traffic control support.

Turner joined IBM in 1956 as a programmer at the Kingston plant. He was named methods programmer in 1957 and project engineer in 1958, a post he has held until his present appointment.

He is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, and chairman of the Kingston chapter of the Association for Computing Machinery.

A veteran of two years service with the U. S. Navy, Turner earned a bachelor of science degree in mathematics - physics from Southwestern College.

He, his wife, Sue, and children, Suzanne, 9, and Jimmy, 7, reside on Russell Road, Hurley. In his new post Keeley will be assigned to the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center in Atlantic City, N. J.

He joined IBM in 1952 as a technical engineer at IBM's Poughkeepsie plant. Two years later he was named associate engineer in product engineering. In 1956 he was named group manager at the Toppingham, Me., site of the SAGE system. Electric Strike Ends

CUBA, N. Y. (AP) — About 650 production workers in this southwestern New York village ended an eight-day strike at the Acme Electric Co., Saturday by ratifying a three-year contract.

The pact provides for a 35 cent increase over the three years. The workers are members of Local 340 of the International Union of Electrical Workers.

The strike grew out of a procedural dispute during contract negotiations.

Rev. Peale Says He Did No Wrong

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale says it may have been unwise for him to align himself with a group of conservative Protestants, but he doesn't feel he did anything wrong.

Dr. Peale said in a sermon Sunday at Marble Collegiate (Reformed) Church, of which he is pastor, that his association with the group known as Citizens for Religious Freedom "might be questionable from the standpoint of wisdom."

"I've never been too bright anyway," he said wryly. His congregation laughed sympathetically.

The group of 150 Protestants, most of whose names have been withheld by the organization, met recently in Washington. One session, led part of the time by Dr. Peale, released a statement which expressed doubt that a Roman Catholic president could resist pressures from the Vatican.

Dr. Peale was accused of injecting religion into the political campaign. Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, is a Roman Catholic. Dr. Peale is supporting Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee, a Quaker.

Dr. Peale resigned from the organization and said he had no part in drawing up the statement.

Ashokan Student

To Enter Academy

Kenneth Aalto of Ashokan entered the Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire, on September 19, as an upper middle or third year student.

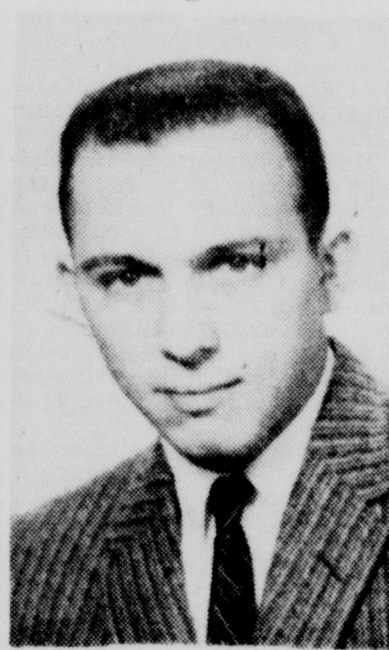

Kenneth was a freshman at Ontonagon High School last year, but took an accelerated course consisting of second and third year subjects. Kenneth, his brother Frederick, and two of Frederick's fellow students at Harvard just returned from a three week motor trip to Mexico where they visited Monterey, Mexico City and Acapulco. All four are amateur speleologists and spent several days exploring caves and old Aztec and Toltec Indian ruins. They also climbed the 15,200 foot high extinct volcano Nevado de Toluca. Frederick Aalto returns to Harvard College, where he is a junior, on September 23.

Attempts Comeback

COLLINSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — At the age of 90, W. J. Jackson is attempting a political comeback. Jackson, mayor in 1932 and 1940 in this north Alabama community of about 1,500 population, is one of the four candidates in today's municipal election. His opponents are Dr. H. G. Greaser, the incumbent; S. A. Shaw and C. V. Smith.

By 1965 there will be approximately twice as many items on the average supermarket's shelves as there are today.

To Help Scouts

JIM STABILE

The appointment of Jim Stabile, of 95 Green Street as director of radio publicity for the 1960 Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scout fund drive campaign, has been announced by chairman Gifford Beal.

The assistant news director at WGHQ, Saugerties, will coordinate the organization of Scout publicity on the radio stations in the Ulster-Greene County area. The drive is scheduled for the month of October in 32 communities of the two-county area. The goal of this year's drive is $30,000. In the Kingston area, the Rip Van Winkle Council is a member agency of the Kingston Area Community Chest.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON
THEY VOTE WITH THEIR FEET

President Eisenhower was never smarter than in his recent challenge to the Communist bosses to offer a free and honest vote to their people as to whether they want to live under tyranny or freedom.

Of course, they will never do this. In fact, the Reds say the President's proposal is a rude interference in their internal affairs!

But no one can vote without a ballot. They can vote with their feet as the runaway slaves did before the Civil War.

This, the Communist slaves have done on all occasions, risking the lives of themselves and relatives. Mr. William H. Chamberlain, in THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, estimates that 7,000,000, or more, have succeeded in making their escape through the Iron Curtain. Notable examples are the East Germans, Hungarians, the prisoners of war in World War II and the Korean War, North Vietnam, the Tachen Islands, etc.

No free election has been held in Russia since that of the Constituent Assembly which met in January, 1918. The Reds got only 25% of that vote, and Lenin dispersed the Assembly with bayonets.

In short, by other methods of voting, the President's proposed plebiscite has never lost an election in 42 years. A few tall domes with bird brains (mostly intellectuals), have defected into Communist countries, but the voters for freedom have been 1000 to 1.

Does Communism really look like "the wave of the future"?

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 19, 1960

CONSTITUTION WEEK

Governor Rockefeller in proclaiming Constitution Week, which currently is being observed, declared it is particularly fitting, in these times, as new nations emerge and begin the experiment of self-government, that we recognize the unrivaled merits of the Constitution of the United States.

Many of the observances take the very useful form of developing appreciation through knowledge of the provisions of this remarkable charter. Becoming familiar with the provisions of the Constitution, however, is not enough. We must also recognize that with the rights go responsibilities.

Never since the adoption of the Constitution 173 years ago has it been so essential that the citizens of this country understand it and the protection it affords them. The Constitution defends us from dictatorship and the totalitarian state that regiments men, their minds and bodies. From these and like evils now so widespread, our Constitution defends us.

The Constitution is the guardian of the rights of every man, woman and child in the nation. It is a vital, living set of principles and beliefs which must be kept close to us for our constant support.

Exclusion of Red China from the U.N., it is argued, restricts that organization's opportunities for developing international cooperation. As far as Communist cooperation goes, the U.N. appears to be having all it can handle.

HOW WILL THEY STAND?

For several years the West has looked upon the United Nations General Assembly as the means of getting around a Russian veto in the Security Council. The Soviet Union obviously would like to block that route of escape.

The Kremlin's overtures toward the turbulent Congo indicate the line Soviet strategy may take. Premier Khrushchev may believe that he can draw to his side the many newly emerging African states, a good number of which are gaining membership in the U.N. this fall.

Some diplomatic observers feel this effort may be one of Khrushchev's major purposes in coming to the U.N. opening in New York. If he could win the support of the African countries, Russia thereafter might be able to defeat the West, consistently in the General Assembly.

The African states, groping their way toward identity, are clearly on test. Barely established, unquestionably naive in international politics, desperately in need of help, they are being asked to measure true Soviet intentions. This is a task that has baffled the most sophisticated.

Yet there are reports from African capitals which give us hope. The leaders seem to understand, for one thing, that the U.N. itself is their great protector.

In the Congo they have seen Russia acting in support of the U.N. but in opposition to it. On the other hand, they have watched the United States act steadily in concert with U.N. objectives.

Wanting a strong, effective U.N. to act in their own behalf, the African nations thus may be quite wary about siding with a Russian nation that has chosen to defy U.N. purposes.

Too often in the past, neutrals and the emerging peoples have felt they were being asked, unfairly it seemed to them, to choose between Russia and the United States.

This time the choice appears to be Russia against the United Nations. If the Africans choose the U.N., they will also be choosing the United States and the West. For never before has the Soviet Union elected to range itself so openly and completely as it has today against the programs and goals of the U.N.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
OUR AMBASSADORS TO CUBA

The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee called before it two former American Ambassadors to Cuba, Arthur Gardner and Earl E. T. Smith, to ask them what they knew about the State Department and Fidel Castro. Both testified to the booming economic conditions of Cuba while they were there and the general sense of economic security on the part of the Cuban people which disappeared after Fidel Castro took over. Gardner made it clear that Castro's assistance came from the United States while the Batista government was in control and recognized by the United States. Gardner said:

"... During the time that I was there, the last year, Castro had landed, and was hiding in the hills. And there had been an endless number of shipment of arms and other things to Castro, which could only come from the United States. Every once in a while we were able to catch such a shipment, and stop it. But we were not very active about it. And one factor which I think was one of the most serious was that the former President, named Prio, was living in Miami. I don't know whether you know this or not, but he was arrested, convicted, and paid a fine of $5,000 for gunrunning. And he was also indicted a second time. And yet no action was ever taken on it. My personal reason for thinking it was serious was that many times Batista would send for me and ask me why this was."

Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith confirmed Ambassador Gardner's judgment:

"Primarily I would say that when we refused to sell arms to the Cuban government and also by what I termed intervening by innuendo (which was persuading other friendly governments not to sell arms to Cuba) that these actions had a moral, psychological effect upon the Cuban armed forces which was demoralizing to the nth degree.

"The reverse, it built up the morale of the revolutionary forces. Obviously when we refused to sell arms to a friendly government, the existing government, the people of Cuba and the armed forces knew that the United States no longer would support Batista's government.

"It is also true, and I believe that I can confirm the story now because the following story was reported by associates of Batista. Further, I was asked by the press last winter to comment on whether we had told Batista to leave the country. At that time I refused to answer the question and referred all comments to the State Department.

"It is also that, upon instructions, I spent 2 hours and 35 minutes on December 17, 1958, with Batista, and I told him that the United States or rather certain influential people in the United States believed that he could no longer maintain effective control in Cuba, and that they believed it would avoid a great deal of further bloodshed if he were to retire.

"Senator Eastland. That was on instructions of the State Department?

"Mr. Smith. An ambassador never would have a conversation like that, sir, unless it was on instructions of the State Department."

Further, Smith said:

"A decision such as prohibiting the sale of arms to a friendly nation can have devastating effects upon the government in power.

"We even did not fulfill our promise to deliver 15 training planes, which had been bought and paid for by the British government. In accordance with instructions from the State Department I informed Batista that delivery would be suspended, because we feared some harm might come to the 47 kidnaped Americans. The kidnapping by Raul Castro of 30 U. S. Marines and sailors, 17 American citizens, and 3 Canadians occurred at this time.

"After the kidnaped Americans were returned we still refused to deliver these training planes because we feared that bombs could be put on the planes even though they were strictly for training purposes.

"I reiterate that decisions such as these may determine whether a government can remain in power.

"Although they could buy arms and ammunition from other sources, the psychological impact on the morale of the government was crippling. On the other hand, it gave a great uplift to the morale of the rebels."

The question that arises here is who made the policy that deprived Batista of arms but permitted Castro to have them. Whose judgment was it? Was it simply an error or was it motivated by doctrinaire attitudes which disregard the welfare of the United States?

Selfishness and Self-Pity Characterize the Alcoholic

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

I have finally come across a report on alcoholics and alcoholism with which I find myself in complete sympathy. Friends and relatives of the alcoholic, says a booklet issued by the Genesee County Medical Society of Flint, Mich., "can either delay or advance the alcoholic's progress toward (sobriety)."

They delay his progress by babying him, protecting him and otherwise making him the center of attention. They arouse his resentment, heighten his feeling of guilt and fear, and increase his desire and need to drink if they nag, scold, threaten, hide his liquor supply and lecture him on how he is making others suffer for his weakness.

They hasten his progress toward sobriety when they treat him like an adult, let him know that he must come to realize for himself that drinking isn't worth its costs, and that no price is too great to pay for release from the need of drink.

Like all other experienced physicians, my dealings with alcoholics, for the most part, have been discouraging, frustrating and wasteful. I have never felt free to subscribe to the views of apologists for the alcoholic who excuse him on the ground that he is sick, lonely, rejected and the like. There are altogether too many sober persons in the ranks of the sick, lonely and rejected to give this excuse validity.

With very rare exception, the alcoholics I've known over the years have been spoiled, self-indulgent, selfish and inconsiderate people who've exploited their weakness to gain unmerited attention (like the bedwetter infant), or to drag to their own low level those who foolishly continue to waste their worldly goods and love on them.

I believe the signal successes of Alcoholics Anonymous are primarily attributable to the reformed drinker who, having been through the mill, is privy to all the ruses and dodges to which the sot resorts.

Like the bedwetter, the alcoholic will continue to lurch as long as his imbibing gains him the attention he craves but does not merit. And, at risk of oversimplification, he'll begin to have second thoughts when he discovers that lying in a wet bed is uncomfortable and will no longer command the immediate presence, the tender care, the unimpaired rebukes or the feeble paddling of loved ones.

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—First showdown between the Communist and Free World countries at the United Nations session beginning Sept. 20 will be over election of a new president for the 15th General Assembly, which now has 82 member nations.

The West has two candidates for the presidency in Frederick H. Boland of Ireland and Thor Thors of Iceland. The Communists are backing Jiri Nosek, deputy foreign minister of Czechoslovakia. A serious split in the Western vote would give the Czech a long-shot chance.

THE NEXT HASSLE will come over selection of three new, nonpermanent members of the Security Council. This item 15 on the agenda. It will come up after perhaps three weeks of general debate and receipt of reports from U.N. agencies.

Argentina, Italy and Tunisia go off the Security Council this year. The Europeans have agreed on Portugal to replace Italy. Near East and African nations have agreed on United Arab Republic to replace Tunisia. Latin-American republics have agreed on Chile to replace the Argentine. But here the Communists are poised to back Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

United Nations experts say it is impossible to try to line up the 82 member countries in blocs, because all the countries in a given area seldom vote solidly.

In spite of this, the problem of the Communists is to line up enough votes to give them a minimum 42-to-40 majority control.

There are 11 in the Communist bloc, counting Yugoslavia and Cuba.

There are 22 nations in the Afro-Asian group, but the list includes a number of neutrals like India, Ceylon, Burma, Malaya, Laos and Cambodia which have experienced Communist troubles.

There are eight members in Africa—not counting Liberia and South Africa, whose sympathies are with the West. There are five Near Eastern countries—not counting Iran, which is allied with the West.

There are nine members in Asia—not counting Japan and Nationalist China which have ties with the West. But if all 22 of the other Afro-Asian countries should vote with Russia, it would give the Communists 33 votes.

AGAINST THIS GROUP are 49 nations usually identified with the non-Communist Free World. This bloc, if you want to call it that, includes 20 countries allied with the United States in North Atlantic, Central and Southeast Asia Treaty Organizations.

It also included five other European nations, the 19 Latin-American Republics, not counting Cuba, plus Japan, Nationalist China, Israel, Liberia and South Africa.

This is a temporary, safe minimum majority of 16. But if the General Assembly president and the new Security Council members were to be chosen this year after the 15 or maybe 16 new nations are taken into the U.N., the count would be different.

All but one of the nations to be taken in this year—Cyprus in the Mediterranean—are in Africa.

The list includes Cameroun, Malagasy (formerly Madagascar), Somalia, Chad, Upper Volta, Ivory Coast, Niger, Dahomey, Gabon, Central African Republic, Congo with capital in Leopoldville, Congo with capital in Brazzaville, and Mali Federation—which may become the two nations of Senegal and Soudan—not to be confused with Sudan of the upper Nile.

With these 15 or 16 added to the 8 African countries now in the U.N.—not counting Liberia and South Africa again—Africa will have 23 or 24 members, the largest single bloc.

A few of these countries have been flirting with the Communists and may vote with them after admission this year.

Eventually the Russians hope to have majority control of the General Assembly and run it to suit themselves.

They had hardly unpacked in Berlin when Dodd started insulting the government to get us into a war according to Roosevelt's design. He had a son, but he knew that that little rat was safe, for the bum was a Communist, so flagrant that Congress later hitched a rider to an appropriation bill providing that young Dodd should never receive a dollar of it. He is dead now, but he managed to sit out his old man's war.

After old Dodd came home from Germany he ran down a little colored girl and tried to escape, but was caught, convicted, fined $250 and made to pay expenses and damages. He offered the explanation that his prominence would have kicked up embarrassing notoriety.

In Germany Martha went in for swilling and helling-around, often with Nazis, such as Putzi (Blubber) Hanfstaengl, Hitler's house-pet pianist.

Just after the purge in Germany, Martha decided that the diplomatic thing was to make a tour of one month in the country which was Germany's favorite enemy. She had a fine time and wrote that "one felt in Moscow that the struggle was over, that the fruits of victory were being cherished and enjoyed by everyone."

This was written after a boat trip down the Volga during which she was told that during the famines of the revolution "for miles around each town, dogs, cats, horses, rats had been devoured" and "some mothers would throw their children into the river but others would kill their children and eat them."

In Moscow, Ambassador Bullitt, who had looked into Russia during the famines, told her five million had starved in 1932-33. She didn't like Bullitt.

When it came to marriage the lucky fellow was Alfred K. Stern, who came from Fargo, N. D. He had been divorced from Julius Rosenwald's daughter, Marion, but Marion gave Stern no financial settlement. He had plenty of his own. Still he was a Red and soon after the war he led a riot in the Senate chamber in Albany. He led it from a discreet distance.

They jumped the country in 1957 and presently, with the help of the Halperin mentioned in paragraph one, flew from Mexico to Prague, whence they later made it into Moscow. They

Khrushchev's Propaganda Plans in U. S. Seen Failing

By DAVID LAWRENCE
in Vladivostok by Khrushchev in which he said:

"When I was preparing for the trip to the United States at the invitation of President Eisenhower, some people in America said: Khrushchev will come to our country, he will see our wealth, our strength, and he will change his views. Perhaps they hoped that I would change my views and abandon Communist ideas? But, of course, only foolish people could think that."

Tricked U. S. President
Today the American people know how the Soviet ruler tricked the United States President into receiving him as a guest by giving a false promise that President Eisenhower would be able to go to the Soviet Union and speak on television and radio to the Soviet people. But when the time came to make good on that promise the Soviet dictator welched on it. He trumped up an excuse about U-2 flights which he admitted later he had known about for four years. The truth is the Soviet chief never had any intention of permitting the President of the United States to speak as freely to the people behind the iron curtain as he himself had been allowed to do inside this country. He is afraid the seeds of revolt will be planted when the truth reaches his people.

New Form of Publicity
"Khrushchev's speeches in America may be said to have given birth to an entirely new form of publicistic activity based on the techniques of the atomic age, and as different from the traditions of publicistic writing as it is from those of political speeches. We have in mind free television debates in which many millions of viewers can watch ideological clashes between the main forces of the Communist ideology and the main forces of the ideology of capitalism."

"Altogether, American television lenses scanned Khrushchev's face for dozens of hours. And the tens of millions of people who saw him on television realize that this was straightforwardness, sincerity, and truth."

School of Social Thought
"By the magic of television it came about that for thirteen days nearly every American home had a Communist guest who did not hide his views and intentions in the face of all America, and of the whole world."

For tens of millions of Americans, television became in those days a school of social thought, an unforgettable university."

Indeed all the pious observations of appeasers in Britain and elsewhere, who are saying restrictions imposed on Khrushchev's movements in the United States are sufficient to show that Khrushchev is "silly" can be deflated by pointing to the palpable lack of reciprocity.

Networks Get Hint
There is no reason for the press or television or radio failing to report in proper proportion any news that arises in connection with Khrushchev's visit to the United Nations in New York City, but the granting of special opportunities to him to carry on his propaganda has been questioned. The State Department has informally indicated to the networks a belief that news coverage at the United Nations is sufficient and that interviews and panel shows with Khrushchev ought to be suspended until high officials of the American government get similar facilities behind the iron curtain. If anyone has any doubts about the existence of a lack of reciprocity, let him read the following dispatch that came last week on the wires of the Reuters press service from Bonn, West Germany:

"The Soviet Union and other Communist bloc countries at present operate more than 2,000 jamming transmitters from 225 stations in an attempt to block Western radio broadcasts." (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

The case of Maurice Halperin, who has turned up in Moscow in a job with the Soviet Academy of Sciences, recalls the case of the Sterns, Alfred K. and Martha. The chain of thought there leads back to Berlin, where Martha's father was Roosevelt's ambassador-by-mistake, and to Eleanor Roosevelt's problem of extricating her foot from her mouth that time in 1945. It was a pretty big foot, but—

Martha's father was an old slob named William B. Dodd. Martha was doing book reviews on a yardage basis for the Chicago Tribune while the old man taught school at the University of Chicago, then as Red as a bloody nose.

They had hardly unpacked in Berlin when Dodd started insulting the government to get us into a war according to Roosevelt's design. He had a son, but he knew that that little rat was safe, for the bum was a Communist, so flagrant that Congress later hitched a rider to an appropriation bill providing that young Dodd should never receive a dollar of it. He is dead now, but he managed to sit out his old man's war.

After old Dodd came home from Germany he ran down a little colored girl and tried to escape, but was caught, convicted, fined $250 and made to pay expenses and damages. He offered the explanation that his prominence would have kicked up embarrassing notoriety.

In Germany Martha went in for swilling and helling-around, often with Nazis, such as Putzi (Blubber) Hanfstaengl, Hitler's house-pet pianist.

Just after the purge in Germany, Martha decided that the diplomatic thing was to make a tour of one month in the country which was Germany's favorite enemy. She had a fine time and wrote that "one felt in Moscow that the struggle was over, that the fruits of victory were being cherished and enjoyed by everyone."

This was written after a boat trip down the Volga during which she was told that during the famines of the revolution "for miles around each town, dogs, cats, horses, rats had been devoured" and "some mothers would throw their children into the river but others would kill their children and eat them."

In Moscow, Ambassador Bullitt, who had looked into Russia during the famines, told her five million had starved in 1932-33. She didn't like Bullitt.

When it came to marriage the lucky fellow was Alfred K. Stern, who came from Fargo, N. D. He had been divorced from Julius Rosenwald's daughter, Marion, but Marion gave Stern no financial settlement. He had plenty of his own. Still he was a Red and soon after the war he led a riot in the Senate chamber in Albany. He led it from a discreet distance.

They jumped the country in 1957 and presently, with the help of the Halperin mentioned in paragraph one, flew from Mexico to Prague, whence they later made it into Moscow. They

GOP Senators Are To Discuss Urban Problems Friday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Upstate Republican state senators, who are mapping legislative proposals, will meet Friday to discuss problems of urban communities.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, who called the meeting at Syracuse, said Saturday the problems include schools, highways, water supply, sewage, recreation and public safety.

Upstate GOP senatorial candidates also will attend. The meeting is the second in a series. The first, at Buffalo, dealt with problems of the aged.

The Syracuse gathering will deal with Upstate urban areas only. A later meeting will be devoted to the New York City metropolitan area.

Women Voters League Meets Tuesday Night

Mrs. Gustav Silverman will preside over the first general meeting of the League of Women Voters Tuesday in the Fire-side Room of the Education Building.

The slate of activities for the coming year will be discussed. Also workshop chairmen will give reports on the activities of their committees. Women over 21 in the area are invited to attend this meeting and observe the work of the league.

Mrs. Harold Chars, Mrs. Michael Landes, and Mrs. Robert Davidson, membership committee, will provide the refreshments.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting in need of transportation, may contact Mrs. Robert Davidson.

Rod and Gun Club Bar-b-que Slated For October 9

New Paltz Rod and Gun Club will hold a bar-b-que at their club grounds on October 9.

Robert DuBois will be the head chef with the assistance of Chet Smith.

The proceeds from this venture will go to further the construction of the boat basin along the Wallkill which is already under way.

The committee hopes that all sportsmen and boaters will support this program so that the mooring basin may be completed in the near future.

Further details about the menu will be announced.

Town Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jorgenson who have resided on the Springtown Road for the past 19 years, will move to Washington, D. C., on October 1.

The Jorgensons, before moving to New Paltz in 1941, lived in Tokyo, Japan for 27 years, where Jorgenson was a missionary executive with the YMCA.

Mr. and Mrs. Jorgenson have both taken a keen and active interest in local affairs. As members of the Reformed Church, Mrs. Jorgenson was a member of the Dutch Guild, and Jorgenson is a past member of the consistory.

Both are members of the Democratic Club, and Jorgenson is a past president of the New Paltz Club.

Jorgenson is a member of Ulster County Cancer Board and president of Elting Memorial Library Board. He was prominent in the development of Mike Moriello Park and served on the site committee as well as working in fund raising events and membership drives.

Mrs. Jorgenson was a loyal member of the now extinct Springtown Ladies Aid.

On September 23 and 24, the Jorgensons are holding a private sale of much of their household furnishings. Among these articles will be some beautiful oriental objects acquired while they were residents of Japan.

The Rev. Willis Tabor, minister to migrants of the New Paltz area, is making arrangements for a series of motion pictures to be shown each week in the communities where the majority of the workers are employed. These shows are to help provide fun, drama, and useful information and inspiration to the migrants in the area.

Linda Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bishop of the Mountain Rest Road, will enter Skidmore College next week. This past summer Linda worked at the inn at Geneva Point, N. H., which is operated by the National Council of Churches.

William Cotton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cotton of 47 Church Street, is studying at the University of Illinois. He transferred from Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania. This is his junior year. At the University of Illinois he will major in Aeronautical Engineering.

Due to the water pollution from hurricane Donna, the Mike Moriello Park will be closed for swimming for the season.

Miss Suzanne Bassett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bassett of Pencil Hill is a member of the freshman class at Elmira College.

Frank Bugar of Joalyn Road, and principal of Poughkeepsie High School will teach a graduate course in administrative interpretations of physical education, health and recreation. This 15-week course will start on September 19 at Poughkeepsie High School and is conducted by Ithaca College Extension School.

Bugar is well qualified for teaching this course as he has had many years experience in the field of physical education. He has degrees from Cortland, Buffalo, Syracuse, NYU, and Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lent of Route 299 and the Rev. and Mrs. Gerret Wullschlegel have returned from a vacation in Cape Cod.

Jean Ruger, of the Mountain Rest Road, who was in an auto accident on September 4, returned home from the hospital on Wednesday. Her brother Richard, who was also hospitalized, was discharged last week.

Little Frederick Pilch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Pilch of Florida, who was born July 8, is recovering from surgery at the Holy Cross Hospital. Vivian and Jesse Pilch were former residents of New Paltz where they operated a variety store.

Junior High Youth Fellowship of the Reformed Church will hold its first meeting of the fall season Wednesday in the Education Building. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Culver will act as advisors.

Discussions at this meeting will be of the Warwick Conference and the purpose of a youth fellowship group. All seventh and eighth graders interested in relating their Christian ideals to everyday life are welcomed to the group.

Explorer Scout Troop 78 is looking for more members. They will meet Monday evening at the American Legion Hall, Route 32. All boys 14 years or older are invited to attend.

Possibility Raised on Local Tax for Medical Care Plans

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller raised today the possibility of new local real-estate taxes to finance the state's share of a federal program for medical care of the aged.

The governor said the state first would have to decide whether it would adopt the program. If it did adopt the program, the next decision, the governor said, would be whether the state's share was financed locally from real-estate taxes, by the state from general revenues or by some combination of the two.

Rockefeller's comments were in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the New York State Conference on Problems of the Aging.

The governor was in the Capitol building for the first time this summer. He was in Albany Aug. 5 for a brief, political meeting but that was held at a local hotel.

In his speech to the conference, Rockefeller did not specify what the state's share of the medical program would be.

He noted that the legislature would determine eligibility and the type of services to be covered. These would affect the total state costs.

The 1960 Congress approved a medical care program under which the federal government will provide 200 million dollars and the states a total of 81 million dollars for medical care of persons 65 and older.

In addition to the speech, Rockefeller also scheduled today a meeting with legislative leaders and a news conference.

He then heads for Delaware to resume campaigning on behalf of the Republican presidential slate.

Must Move Forward, His Theme

Kennedy Appeal for Votes Here Stresses U.S. Future

Robert Kennedy, younger brother of Democratic presidential nominee Sen. John F. Kennedy, continues today his tour of upstate New York to lay the ground work for a campaign swing by the senator later this month.

The younger Kennedy visited Kingston Saturday and other local areas accompanied by Democratic leaders and local candidates.

At Dietz Memorial Stadium he spoke briefly, apologizing for being two hours and 15 minutes late due to scheduling which did not calculate the distance from Sullivan County to this city. After his local appearance, Kennedy went to Saugerties for Assembly Day.

Says Future at Stake

"The coming election is important to all," he said, "not just to Democrats alone. On it depends whether we stand still at home and abroad."

Appealing for votes, he remarked, "If this country is to move forward, we need your help, your assistance. . . . The next election may mark the turning point in the history of the United States to make it a better place to live for us and our children."

Concerning his upstate tour today, the Associated Press said: "His schedule called for seven stops in the Mohawk Valley, including an appearance at a dinner of the Schenectady County Democratic Committee tonight in Schenectady."

Aiming for GOP Vote
Robert Kennedy toured Western New York and the Syracuse area Sunday. He said his brother hoped to cut heavily into the normally Republican upstate vote.

He contended that John's religion — the Kennedys are Roman Catholics — now was the biggest issue in the campaign, and he charged that supporters of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, were keeping the issue alive.

Asked in a radio interview (WVDR) Sunday night who was pressing the religious issue, Kennedy replied:

"You have the supporters of Mr. Nixon such as Norman Vincent Peale and others who put out their statements. The chairman of the Texas Republican Party who broadcasts 15 minutes a day on this and other subjects."

The Rev. Dr. Peale has been identified with the National Conference of Citizens for Religious Freedom, which issued a controversial statement questioning whether a Roman Catholic president could resist pressures from his church.

The Rev. Dr. Peale, pastor of Marble Collegiate Church in New York City, said Sunday he did not feel there was anything wrong with his association with the group but that "it might be questionable from the standpoint of wisdom. He previously announced he had severed all connections with the conference."

Surprised at Intensity

The younger Kennedy told a campaign breakfast in Rochester that his brother was not surprised "that his religion is an issue, but he is surprised at the intensity" of feeling about it.

Later he spoke at rallies in Canandaigua and Geneva and ended the day with a bean supper sponsored by Kennedy supporters in the Syracuse area.

He said he was only re-stating his brother's ideas on national progress and touched briefly on several aspects of the Democratic platform in the speeches.

The Democratic candidate has scheduled a conference with farm leaders here Sept. 30.

Robert Kennedy said the senator would make a second swing through the Upstate area in October and would carry his campaign into Northern New York and south-central counties.

Robert Kennedy called the outlook in the state very promising for the Democratic standard bearer but added "we will have to do as well Upstate as possible to carry the state in November."

kept thoroughfares along the 2½-mile route virtually deserted.

Khrushchev said the Soviet delegation is coming to the United Nations "in the name of consolidating peace and solving complicated international issues."

"It is, after all, known that however dark the night, the dawn invariably breaks," he declared.

Girls Carry Flowers

The premier was welcomed enthusiastically by 100 or so Soviet girls, including several girls bearing flowers. He waved heartily as he walked down the gangplank, and smiled broadly.

Hardly audible on the pier was the chorus of boos from a crowd kept by police lines across East River Drive, several hundred feet away. There cries of "Murderer!" from the crowd.

The Soviet leader denounced as "a strange sort of logic" the recent criticism by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter of his visit as propaganda.

"If certain individuals declare that Khrushchev has come to the United Nations General Assembly to indulge in propaganda, it only remains for me to take pride in such a propaganda mission for the good of peace," he said.

"I shall spare no effort in making such propaganda until even the thick-skulled convince themselves of the necessity to reach agreement on general disarmament and thereby assure world peace."

Family Program Planned at CA Methodist Church

An autumn series of family church nights has been planned at the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. The series will be held for four consecutive Sunday evenings, beginning Sept. 25. Each session, beginning with a family supper at the church, will include activities for every age group as well as a special program feature for all.

The series, under the title of An Adventure in World Fellowship, will be held under the auspices of the Commission on Missions. The general theme will be Japan. Included in the special program features will be an evening devoted to audio and visual materials furnished by Dr. and Mrs. John R. Skillman, of Tokyo, Japan, teaching missionaries who are supported by the Clinton Avenue Church.

The staff for group activities includes Mrs. Thomas Miller, primary; Mrs. Robert Gaines, junior; Alex Arcus, junior high; Thomas Hahn and Lloyd Hollis, senior high and Rex DePew, adult.

Other staff members are Arthur Crist, publicity; Mrs. George Edwards, decorations; and Mrs. Clarence Dederick, food. Junette Arcus, Dr. Clyde H. Snell, minister, and Mrs. Howell Lowe, former missionary to Japan have served as consultants. Mrs. Florence Campbell, chairman of the commission on missions, has made arrangements for the special program features. Mrs. Kenneth Tutwiler is chairman of the Adventure in World Fellowship.

4 Killed in Crash

CARBONDALE, Pa. (AP) — A tractor-trailer from a carnival went out of control on a steep hill today, crushed an oncoming car and smashed into a house, setting it afire. Three adults and one child were killed.

No one in the house—occupied by Thomas Moffitt—was reported hurt. The fire, touched off by flaming gasoline, was under control within an hour.

Two adults and a child riding in the truck, and the driver of the automobile, were killed.

There were no immediate identifications.

Sentence Deferred

George Ashley, Jr., 29, of 23 West Strand, arrested Saturday on a third degree assault charge, pleaded guilty before Special City Judge Arthur B. Ewig today and sentence was put over to Tuesday morning. He was arrested by Ruth Sauter, of 69 West Union Street, who charged that Ashley struck her as she was walking on lower Broadway.

LeRoy Hamilton, 44, of 101 Abel Street, charged with a traffic light violation, was fined $5.

16 Nations Ask Support Of Dag's Congo Mission

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Sixteen African and Asian countries urged the General Assembly today to back Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's mission in the Congo.

They pushed their resolution in the face of the Soviet Union's campaign against Hammarskjöld and its expressed determination to send the Congo help outside U. N. channels whenever it pleased.

The 82-nation Assembly, in emergency session on the Congo since Saturday, scheduled morning, afternoon and evening meetings today.

Resolution Action
There were prospects it might adopt the resolution tonight, with in hours after the arrival of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for the regular session opening Tuesday.

Assembly President Victor Andres Balaunde of Peru was ready to call another meeting Tuesday morning if necessary to finish with the issue in time to open the regular session on schedule at 3 p. m.

Besides Khrushchev, Presidents Gamal Abdel Nasser of the U. A. R., Tito of Yugoslavia and Sukarno of Indonesia, prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba and seven satellite and Soviet republic leaders will attend the regular session. President Eisenhower will speak Thursday.

Nikita Interview
En route to New York aboard

the Soviet liner Baotika, Khrushchev said in a ship-to-shore interview that Hammarskjöld was backing the Belgian colonialists in the Congo. He also said, "The Soviet Union has helped and will help the Congolese people in their struggle for independence."

The Asian-African resolution, introduced Sunday night, asked Hammarskjöld "to continue to take vigorous action" to help the Congolese government keep law and order.

18,000 UN Forces
Hammarskjöld has put an 18,000 man U. N. force in the Congo for that purpose. Without mentioning the force, the proposal called on all countries to refrain from sending war materials and military personnel to the Congo at this time "except upon the request of the United Nations through the secretary-general."

This appeal, the resolution said was "without prejudice to the sovereign rights of the Republic of the Congo"—whose sometime Premier Patrice Lumumba has accepted Soviet planes and trucks in his fight against secession movements and has insisted he is entitled to get aid outside the U. N.

Diplomatic sources said this qualification was inserted to get Ghana and Guinea to become sponsors.

The other sponsors were Ceylon, Indonesia, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Liberia, Libya, Morocco, Nepal, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Tunisia, the United Arab Republic and Yemen.

Mobutu Had Tip Assassin Would Attempt to Kill Him

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congo's reigning strongman, told today how he foiled an assassination plot, personally overcoming the gunman sent to kill him.

Mobutu charged army supporters of Patrice Lumumba with plotting the assassination attempt Sunday at about the same time the deposed premier came out of hiding.

Mobutu on Guard
Mobutu claimed he had been tipped off and was ready for the assassin, identified as Congolese army Maj. Vital Bakasa.

Mobutu told U. N. security officers that he was on guard when Bakasa entered his office with one hand in his pocket. Mobutu pounced on the major and managed to wrest from him a loaded and cocked revolver.

U. N. Moroccan soldiers doing guard duty outside Mobutu's office in Camp Leopold II rushed into the room on hearing the commotion and found the two men grappling on the floor.

Bakasa was overpowered and handed over to the Congolese army.

Mobutu, who seized control of the government in a bloodless coup last Wednesday, said Bakasa had made a full confession.

Mobutu said "the army will know how to deal with Bakasa" and the other officers he said were in the plot.

Lumumba Reappears
Congolese forces invading secessionist Katanga province meantime agreed to withdraw, dealing Lumumba another blow in his struggle for power.

The United Nations peace mission said the commander of Lumumba's striking forces Sunday approved creation of a 60-mile wide no-man's-land along the Katanga-Kivu border. That buffer zone, it observed, would go a long way toward restoring peace.

Lumumba, ousted as premier by President Joseph Kasavubu, came out of three days hiding shouting defiance but Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congo's rising strongman, appeared to have the situation in hand in the capital.

Lumumba, who disappeared Wednesday when Mobutu seized power, showed up at his house Sunday and placed himself under the protection of U. N. troops. He was believed to have hidden out in the Guinean mission after attempts to lynch him.

Traffic Accidents
Calvin H. Greenwood of Stanleywood, Va., stationed at Plattsburgh AFB, three-car crash Saturday night on Route 9 near Canadian border.

Greenwood Lake—Robert Nordblom, 22, of Flushing, Queens, thrown from a car that crashed off Route 17-A Sunday.

Syracuse — James P. Mulhern, 29, of New York City, car plunged down an embankment Sunday.

New York—Hyman Entin, 75, of Brooklyn, struck by a car as he crossed a street Sunday.

Eaton — Robert R. Markowski, 18, of West Eaton, auto hit a tree Sunday.

Freedom For

up the tragically crushed Hungarian uprising and ask how any liberation of satellites can be achieved without war.

Must Have Hope

"My answer is that tyrants have always underestimated moral force. As long as hope lives in the heart of a people, the tyrant is not safe," Nixon said.

"We must work for these hopes at the diplomatic tables, we must insist that any competition for ideas must take place on the other side of the Iron Curtain as well as on this side."

"We must achieve our goal without war and we can achieve it without war."

Recalls Feeling
Nixon said the greeting a quarter million Poles gave him and other American officials when they visited Warsaw made it plain that "the United States was right in refusing to draw a line across the middle of Europe and said 'all this belongs to Khrushchev.'"

"We cannot allow him a privileged sanctuary from which to launch his attack."

Nixon was introduced by former Gov. Theodore McKeldin of Maryland as "one of the best-known men in the world" and "the undisputed champion in the cold war with communism."

Mystery
It is not understood exactly how the electric organs in the torpedo fish become charged, giving it the ability to discharge electricity.

Buses Are Back On Schedule Now, Kennedy's Order

Bus runs of the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., today were on regular schedule after the end of a walkout late last week, described by management and union representatives as a "wildcat strike."

Drivers and management were involved in the walkout which was reported ended early Friday night. They are members of Carl Yetzer Lodge 682, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The men, it was reported today, were ordered back on their jobs by W. P. Kennedy, the union's grand lodge president with headquarters in Cleveland.

Kenneth L. Gordon, of Rosendale, president of Local 682, said meetings between union and management representatives are due to start Thursday morning in company offices.

Nazarenes Slate District Meeting

Soil Bank Land Addition Halted For the Season

There will be no sign-up this fall of additional land or contracts under the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve, John S. Geary, Chairman of Ulster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said today.

In response to inquiries from farmers regarding the status of the program, Geary said that program contracts which expire in 1960 or later are no longer eligible to be extended for an additional period of years. "Under the Soil Bank Act enacted in May of 1956," Geary explained, "the Secretary of Agriculture was authorized to enter into Conservation Reserve contracts with producers during the five year period 1956-60." The sign-up under the 1960 program was held last fall so that farmers would know in advance of the cropping season whether their land would be accepted into the Conservation Reserve.

Since the authorization to enter into new contracts has not been extended beyond 1960 there will be no sign-up period this fall. Farmers should understand however that the existing contracts for 1960 and previous years will remain in effect and payments will continue to be made under them for the period of the contracts and in accordance with contract terms.

The annual Department of Agriculture appropriation bills provide money with which to meet obligations already on the books. There are 40 CR contracts in effect this year in Ulster county involving a total of 1250 acres Geary said. Contract periods range from 3 to 10 years and annual rental payments for 1960 amount to approximately $16,000. Nationally there are more than 300,000 CR contracts in effect in 1960 covering a total acreage of approximately 28.6 million acres in 48 states. The average rental payment is $11.85 per acre, and the rental payments for 1960 will amount to about $338 million.

Nutritional Know-How Helps Newlyweds to a Good Start

SMART bride knows that better meals—enjoyable, nutritionally balanced, attractive—serve to strengthen new marriages.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise

Food and Markets Editor

Wedding bells are important to the young bride and groom, of course. But so is the quality of the meals they are going to share together.

By quality of meals we mean enjoyment, nutritional balance and careful preparation. Marriage counselors, psychologists and clergymen all agree that good meals for two, enjoyed together, are a vital factor in making new marriages stick. Once the new homemaker realizes how important regular well-balanced meals are for the continued health and happiness of her young husband and herself, she will want to learn the basic principles of modern nutrition and put them to work. Most modern brides know that better meals build better families.

Martha J. Thomson, nutritionist for the Cook County Department of Public Health, Chicago, and an active supporter of the National Youth Power Congress, believes nutrition should be taught young people early in life.

"Probably the greatest needs today in the field of nutrition education are in teaching our young people to know human food needs and how to meet them," she said, adding "and helping them to establish, early in life, attitudes and habits which will enable them to apply this knowledge to their own individual needs all through life, in health or disease."

She believes the first of these needs should be met largely by schools and both private and public health services.

"However, in satisfying the second need the family serves a unique function. Through shared experiences of happy and stress-free mealtimes, the family will make the greatest contribution to the development of healthy attitudes and good eating habits," she said.

She is convinced that only with both accurate information and good eating habits can we, as a society or as individuals, make the best use of scientific knowledge and an abundant food supply.

"Today when current research indicates added hope for controlling or possibly preventing certain disabling effects of some chronic diseases through dietary modification, the role played by the family in the development of good eating practices becomes of increasing importance," she concluded.

Well-known Chicago home economists, experts in family meal planning, suggest this meat loaf recipe and dinner menu for young brides. The recipe is easy to prepare and the menu provides eating pleasure and good nutrition.

Mexican Meat Loaf
(Makes 8 servings)

One and one-half pounds ground beef, ¾ cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked), 2 eggs, beaten; 1 cup drained canned tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup drained canned corn with red and green sweet peppers.

Heat oven to moderate (350 degrees F.). For meat loaf, combine all ingredients thoroughly and pack firmly into a loaf pan (1-pound size). Bake in a preheated oven (350 degrees F.) about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before slicing.

Tangy Sour Cream Sauce

One cup cultured sour cream, 1-3 cup catsup, ¼ teaspoon hot spicy sauce, 1 teaspoon onion salt, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento.

Beat sour cream until stiff. Fold in remaining ingredients. Spoon sauce over slices of meat loaf.

NOTE: Slice remaining meat loaf and use for hot or cold sandwiches; serve on toasted corn bread squares topped with sauce; or freeze meat loaf and sauce and serve a few days later.

Saugerties Man Bitten By Snake Returns Home

A Town of Saugerties Highway Department employee, Claude E. Becker of Blue Mountain, who was bitten by a snake last Tuesday while gathering brush, returned from Benedictine Hospital Saturday and will be convalescing at the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James O'Connor of Centerville.

Becker was gathering debris along the Ralph Veder Road near Saxton when bitten in the right hand by a snake.

Town Highway Superintendent William R. Brown took Becker to Dr. B. W. Gifford who gave the highway worker an antivenom shot. Becker was then taken to Benedictine Hospital where he received further treatment.

Although the identity of the snake was not definite, it was believed to be a copperhead.

Fruit Picker Held For Assault Upon Highland Resident

An itinerant fruit picker from Orlando, Fla., was arrested during the weekend charged with second degree assault in connection with the slaying of Robert Lee Gardner, 29, of Highland, Friday night.

Louis Howard, 42, who has been working on a farm at Lagrangeville, was arraigned in Poughkeepsie city court this morning and committed to the Dutchess County Jail to await action of the grand jury.

Gardner was severely slashed during a fight which started in the Monte Carlo restaurant on Lower Main Street, Poughkeepsie.

The victim, a Highland laborer, was taken to Vassar Hospital where 40 sutures were taken to close deep wounds on the left side of Gardner's neck and left shoulder.

Gardner and four or five other men, including Howard, engaged in a fight at the tavern during which Gardner was slashed. Gardner reportedly fled from the tavern to a grocery across the street where the proprietor, Joseph Abdo, summoned police.

Bar Association Lists Plans for Constitution Week

An Ulster County Bar Association Committee under the chairmanship of Attorney William D. Brinnier of Saugerties will observe Constitution Week and the proclamation of Governor Rockefeller by holding appropriate ceremonies at Ulster County Court House Building Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Brinnier advises that educational leaders throughout the county have been invited to participate in the ceremonies which are to include a tour of the Court House Building, the observing of American processes of government by way of a visit to the court room of County Judge Louis G. Bruhn, a luncheon at the Hotel Kirkland at which President of the Ulster County Bar Association Hugh Elwyn and Ulster County Judge Bruhn shall address the participants, and an afternoon tour of local law offices so that the participants will observe the continual work of lawyers in protecting the rights of the citizens of the country under the United States Constitution.

Brinnier, justice of the peace of the Town of Saugerties and a member of the law firm of Francoeur & Brinnier, heads a committee including George Beck and Bernard Feeney Jr. of Kingston, William Wilkin of Saugerties and James Murray Ellenville.

(Morgan Davis & Co.)

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market fell through the 1960 closing lows in the Dow Jones industrial average in active trading early this afternoon.

Key stocks dropped from fractions to more than 2 points.

The Dow industrials pierced the so-called "600 level" in the first hour then plunged deeper below it in heavier turnover as the session wore on.

The ticket rape ran late as selling snowballed in the afternoon. The so-called "triple bottom" formed around 600 in the Dow industrials had formed a support area on three "tests" in March, May and July when prices rebounded from it. Last week the average sank close to it again but failed to rally, moving indecisively. The action today was a vigorous penetration which, according to Wall Street theory, should cause the list to drop further and find a lower support.

Trading sentiment also was dampened by the United Nations meeting which some traders feared could have unsettling results.

Steels, autos, rails, utilities, chemicals, oils, aircrafts, electronics, rubbers and nonferrous metals joined in the broad retreat.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 9.80 to 592.38. This year's closing low was 599.10 on March 8.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.50 at 213.10—remaining above the year's closing low of 207.8 also reached March 8.

Long-range government bonds continued to forge ahead, but other treasury issues and most corporate bonds were mixed.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 63 Wall Street, New York City, branch office, 41 John Street, Matthew F. Hasbrouck Jr., resident manager.

Another major issue, the problem of disarmament, has been discussed for years but it takes on special importance because of the breakdown of the 10-nation talks in Geneva which dumped the whole question back into the lap of the assembly.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and President Eisenhower both are expected to submit arms proposals—and there is little doubt that they will exchange charges which will turn the debate into another major cold war battle.

One of Khrushchev's likely objectives is to administer a severe propaganda beating to the United States, to isolate it, if possible from the underdeveloped nations of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

He may seek to create the impression that the session is a sort of summit rally of "peace loving forces" at a critical turning point in history to defeat the forces of imperialism.

There is little optimism that any major achievements will be recorded by the Assembly under the circumstances. One of the few will be the admission of 14 or more new African nations, which will in the future add to the strength of the growing neutralist force in the world organization.

At Local YMCA Open House Set To View Results Of Renovation

Kingston YMCA will hold "Open House" for the people of the Kingston area, Tuesday, Oct. 4 from 7:30 to 9 p. m., so that they may see the newly renovated interior of the building.

This work took place during July and August, and part of September, Arthur W. Patterson, president of the board of directors, said today.

The main entrance on Broadway, and the two main lobbies have been refurnished as well as new lighting throughout. The corner lobby will now become an older boys and young men's recreation room and furnished with new equipment. The main office and other rooms on the first floor have all taken on a new look. The basement has a complete new appearance. The boys and young men's locker room and dressing quarters have been moved, newly painted with recessed lights and a new ventilating system installed in six needed areas.

The latest style lockers have been installed and is something that has long been needed in the physical department, he said.

The special exercise and weight lifting room is larger, so as to take care of the large number of members using this special space. The business men's health club has also taken on a new look.

The big job is in the gymnasium and it now looks like a new structure. The floor has been sanded and refinished. The basketball floor has been widened with 264 square feet added to the playing space. The walls, the ceiling and the spectators balcony have new life because of the color scheme. Many new pieces of gym equipment will also be added.

The public is invited to attend this open house. People who cannot make the evening inspection, can have a guided tour in the afternoon between 4 and 5 p. m.

The board of directors and trustees along with the volunteer Teen Leader's Corp will act as building guides. General Secretary Louis H. Schaefer and Physical Director Richard W. Case will be available throughout the inspection to answer questions concerning program. The YMCA is a member of the Kingston Area Community Chest.

Signs Indus Treaty
KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru of India and President Mohammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan signed today a treaty for distribution of Indus River waters, ending a 13-year-old dispute between the two nations.

The treaty finally was made possible by a billion-dollar investment for peace by the World Bank and six of its members.

Nehru will stay here for five days for talks on the Kashmir dispute and other problems between the two nations.

Stays Calm in Pond
Waits Till Water Fills Car Then Leaves by Window

MALDEN, Mass. (AP)—"I simply waited while the water poured inside the car."

Twenty-eight-year-old Joseph Sullivan, an automobile salesman, was telling how he saved his life Sunday by staying calm in an emergency.

An oncoming car forced Sullivan to swerve off Fellowship East Highway at 5:20 a. m. He lost control and his car plunged down an embankment and into Fellsme Pond, 20 feet deep.

Life-guard training had taught Sullivan he couldn't open doors or windows until water pressure inside the car was equal to that outside. So for four minutes he played it cool.

"When I struck bottom I immediately turned off the ignition. I didn't want to take a chance on a short circuit. I left my lights on, though. I thought there was a chance some motorist might spot them."

"After that, I simply waited while the water poured inside the car. Two vent windows were open. Some water poured in through them. The rest came through the bottom of the car."

"I wanted to smoke to relieve the tension. How I would have loved a cigarette. But I dismissed that idea. Whoever heard of lighting up a cigarette at the bottom of a pond?"

"The water came in quickly. I'm thankful I had a small compact car that was easy to fill up. If I had one of those big jobs I don't believe I'd have had the nerve to hold on that extra minute or two."

"When the water got up to my chest—all cold and clammy—I decided it was time for me to leave."

"I tried to open the door. I pushed and shoved but it wouldn't open. It must have been banged up somehow."

"So I tried the windows. I'm 6 foot 3 inches tall and I didn't think there would be room for me to get through."

"I took a deep, deep breath and turned the handle to open the window. It rolled down easily. The water poured in on me but I was able to fight my way out."

"A moment or two later, I was at the surface breathing in that clean fresh air. I thought, 'for awhile I'd never smell again.'"

Insists Move
lion this year to an estimated $720 million for the current school year.

The organization said it also favored annual percentage increases in state aid to schools. "Until the proper foundation level is attained."

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said, meanwhile, that a quarterly payment of $18,248,001 in state aid now was being distributed.

Of the total, $121,838,768 is going 50 cities, villages and school districts for the first quarter of the 1959-60 school year, which ended last June.

The balance is going to four cities—New York, Syracuse, Albany and Yonkers—as the final payment for the school year that ended in June 1959.

The Educational Conference Board, in announcing its legislative program, said it also would seek to broaden local taxing powers, improve local budget making and greater equity among school districts.

Fidel Not Talking in Soviet denunciations of alleged U.S. aggression in Cuba and other Latin-American nations, and to urge admission of Communist China to the U.N.

Anti-Castro elements paraded quietly at the United Nations, toured in buses and cars around town, and booed the Prime Minister as his car rolled on parkways through Queens into Manhattan.

The boos grew louder as he pulled up to the Hotel Shelburne at Lexington Ave. and 37th St., not far from the U.N. His smile vanished and he strode grimly through the lobby, to shouts of "Commie, go home." He went directly to his room on the third floor, accompanied by a dozen bearded bodyguards and a force of about 25 U.S. state and city security agents.

Report Black Bear
Police were notified Sunday night by a resident of Gill Street that "a large black bear" had been seen by a young couple as they walked over the High Road (East Union Street). Officer Otto Short and Lewis Keator, dispatched on the bear hunt, reported no luck. Residents of the area reported seeing bears in the rocky area below Hasbrouck Park about three years ago.

Methodist Church Regional Parley Set at Epworth
A regional seminar on Christian vocations will be held at Camp Epworth near High Falls, Oct. 11-13 for the annual conference of the Methodist Church in the northeastern section of the United States.

The seminar will bring together the chairmen and members of the annual conference commissions on Christian vocations.

Methodist Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, New York City, head of the New York Area of the Methodist Church, will be the keynote speaker Tuesday afternoon, October 11, discussing the general topic, "What Is the Need in the Area of Christian Vocations?" Methodist Bishop Edwin E. Voigt, Springfield, Ill., chairman of the Methodist Inter-board Committee on Christian Vocations, will give the concluding address Thursday afternoon.

Panel Discussions Slated
The Rev. Richard H. Bauer, Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of the Interboard Committee on Christian Vocations, will be in charge of the program, which will include panel and group discussions on "Goals of the Annual Conference on Christian Vocations" and "Methods by Which These Goals Can Be Accomplished."

The Rev. Alex Porteus, Newburgh, will be in charge of local arrangements.

The meeting will be the last of a series of six seminars conducted by the denomination across the country this year.

The following Methodist annual conferences are expected to be represented:

New York, New York East, Central New York, Northern New York, Genesee, Troy, Wyoming, Maine, New England, Southern, New Hampshire, Newark, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Erie, Pittsburgh, Central Pennsylvania, Baltimore, Peninsula and West Virginia, and the Delaware, East Tennessee, and Washington conferences of the Central (Negro) Jurisdiction of The Methodist Church.

Phoned Stock Offers May Be Phony

Q "I've had some very interesting literature about a copper stock and just recently I had a long-distance phone call from a broker who offered me this same stock and promised me that it would double in price very shortly. I work hard and wouldn't want to lose. Would you advise me to accept his offer?" — R. F.

A) Definitely not. I feel very certain that you have been selected to join the large group of investors who have been victimized by unscrupulous telephone salesmen. These gentlemen operate in offices that are referred to as "boiler-rooms" because of the continuous racket from men shouting over the phone all day, trying hard to separate decent people like yourselves from their savings.

Here's how boiler-rooms work. The prospective victim is usually softened up by literature which manages to stress the name of the stock that is being pushed. Next comes the phone call from a persuasive salesman who makes elaborate promises, knowing that it's hard to take legal action on a telephone conversation.

Ask your caller to put his promises in writing, and I doubt if you'll hear from him again. Then make a hard and fast rule. Never buy any stock on the telephone, unless you know and fully trust the person on the other end of the line. And trust no one who promises you a big, fast profit.

Q "Do you think American Standard is good for growth?" — S. L.

A) American Standard has made no real headway in the past 10 years. The dividend looks safe, but there is little growth in prospect.

Note: A recent column listed interest payments that you would receive if you bought a $10,000 H bond. This was a typing error. The payments as listed applied to the purchase of a $1,000 H bond.

Kerhonkson Man Completes Course

CAPT. ESAI BERENBAUM

A Kerhonkson resident, Captain Esai Berenbaum, with the U. S. Army was recently cited by Lt. Gen. George W. Mundy, USAF, commandant of the Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Washington, D. C. for having completed the college's correspondence course with honors.

The course entitled "The Economics of National Security" is based on the 10-month resident course conducted for selected senior officers of the military services as well as officials of the civilian governmental agencies.

The Industrial College which operates under the control of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is the only senior joint service college which devotes itself to the study of the geo-economic factors of national and international affairs. Its mission is to educate its students in the economic, political, psychological, and military aspects of national security under all conditions: normalcy, economic stress, and limited or total conflict.

The correspondence course, which is available without cost to qualified civilians in business, industry, and the various professions, as well as to officers of the regular reserve forces, takes about one year to complete. Interested persons may apply to the Commandant, ICAF, Washington 25, D. C.

Captain Berenbaum is presently assigned to the Civil Affairs Division, Headquarters USARER, APO 403, New York City. For the past three years he was assigned to Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, as assistant professor of Military Science.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A slight pickup in steel orders is bringing some cheer to the much beset metals industries.

Copper, lead and zinc markets are plagued with worldwide over supplies and price weakness. Aluminum has a cost squeeze on profits.

Steelmen, though thankful for the belated gain in orders reported in recent days, still are mostly reconciled to only a moderate increase in tonnage output until at least November. The Federal Reserve Board has made the prediction of a less than normal advance in September official, after reporting a disappointing August.

Tied to Cycles

The metals industries tend to be up-and-down propositions, closely tied to business cycles. Now their situation is complicated by overseas political and labor uncertainties.

Long-range considerations include technical and mechanical advancements that magnify their current capacity to produce well in excess of demand. Most observers think this could last for a few years longer.

There is also growing competition, not only with each other, but with the steadily increasing number and volume of substitutes to which their customers can turn when metal prices seem too high.

Slackness of demand for steel is most noticeable in the United States. In West Europe it still finds a prime market.

One Consolation

But American steelmen have one consolation. After a period of our steel imports topping exports, American steel once more is flowing overseas in greater volume than European and Japanese steel is coming here.

The best domestic customers for steel are still not ordering in old-time volume.

Auto makers either are using less steel for smaller cars or still living to some extent off their stockpiles. Appliance makers are ordering a little better, but not much.

The construction industry has slowed down a bit, and also has taken a fancy to other materials—concrete, aluminum, glass, plastics. The oil industry has its own excess capacity problem, and isn't buying steel for new wells, pipe lines and refineries the way it once did.

Advertising Medium

Two out of every three housewives found newspapers to be the most helpful advertising medium in the buying of food products, according to an Illinois Consumer Survey.

Copper shares some of these problems with steel. It usually moves up and down in much the same way with the business cycle.

Tied to Uncertainties

But copper's problems involve, in addition to worldwide overcapacity to produce, the uncertainties of political upheavals in Africa and Latin America.

The Congo, for example, has copper which Russia could use to advantage. You might remember that during Khrushchev's visit to Manhattan Island.

Fluctuations in the costs of producing and finishing metals—with mechanical advances constantly sparring with rising wage scales—add to the zest of the competition with other materials.

Port Ewen

PORT EWEN — The Ladys Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Department will hold its regular monthly meeting today at the firehouse at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Millie Moseman has returned home after spending part of her vacation with her cousin, Miss Anna Dewey at Prattsville. While there Miss Dewey and Mrs. Moseman had to be evacuated due to Hurricane Donna flooding their home.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service will be held Tuesday, Sept. 27, at the church house at 8 p. m. Devotions will be in charge of Mrs. Basil Potter. Hostesses will be Mrs. George Castor and Mrs. Eltinge Ellsworth. An open discussion on the aims of the WSCS will be led by the Rev. George Hunsberger.

Wharton Asks For Favorable Action on Milk

Congressman J. Ernest Wharton of the 29th District this week asked the U. S. Department of Agriculture to take favorable action on milk producers' demands for a wholesale price on milk equal at least to 1959 levels.

The department has scheduled a hearing for Tuesday upon the dairymen's request for such action.

The congressman wired the Secretary of Agriculture as follows: "Strongly urge favorable consideration of proposal to keep blend fluid milk prices at the 1959 levels in jurisdiction of Order No. 27. Production costs

Chaplain for Seamen

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Lutheran Service Society of Northern Ohio is providing a special ministry for seamen sailing the recently opened St. Lawrence Seaway.

A chaplain, the Rev. Bernhard Loesch of Thomasboro, Ill., holds services aboard the deep-water ships in port, counsels seamen and arranges shore leave recreation.

The Rev. Mr. Loesch is particularly well fitted to serve visiting seamen from foreign lands. He speaks English, German, Swedish, French, Spanish and Dutch.

have definitely increased for producers and current requests are modest to say the least. Obviously this should result in no increase to consumers over last year's prices and is in order in fairness to the dairy farmer."

ULSTER PARK NEWS

ULSTER PARK — Officers elected at the last meeting of Ulster Grange 969 were: Clarence E. Feer, Kingston, Master; Harold Story, overseer; Mrs. Adelle Villielm, chaplain; Mrs. Otto Thoden, steward; Grover Bjenje, assistant steward; Mrs. Betty Travis, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Winslow, treasurer; Mrs. Helen Soper, gatekeeper; Mrs. Alice Greiner, Flora; Mrs. Henrietta Villielm, Ceres; Mrs. Clarence Freer, Pomona; Mrs. Grover Bjenje, pianist; Mrs. Dorothy Winslow, flag bearer.

The next regular meeting of Ulster Grange will be held in the Grange hall on Wednesday, Sept. 21 at 8 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Gendreau Jr., who have spent the summer with Mr. Gendreau's parents have moved to Livingston Manor where both have positions with the Livingston Manor Consolidated school.

Mrs. Henry Neher of Port Ewen is teaching the lower grades at the Ulster Park School.

Miss Augusta Hier of Albany has been solist in the Reformed Church the last several Sundays.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The other day, one of my neighbors, showed me a letter from her son, Robert Lang radio man, U. S. Navy, a Kingston High School graduate of 1958 who is now stationed at Fort Amador at Panama City in the Canal Zone. "Bobby mentioned this column in his letter, that he reads it as well as some of his buddies, as he received The Freeman in the Canal Zone.

It just so happened, that Daniel Murphy of Meadow Street, a tug boat engineer dropped in the other evening and told me that a Captain Howard Wentworth, now retired and for some 20 years ship pilot on the Panama Canal has been saving my column for a number of years. Strange as it may seem, Capt. Wentworth is not from here, nor did he ever live here, he is now in New York City when Mr. Murphy spoke to him.

It seems, Leo Welsh of Rosendale, also a ship pilot at the Panama Canal received The Freeman from his sister and Mr. Wentworth saw the column there. What Mr. Wentworth was interested in most, was the history of Hudson River boats, and tug boats, which from time to time are mentioned here. It seems, he has been a collector of various books and items along this subject. Anyway it is nice knowing one has friends in Panama Canal, and also proves how far The Freeman travels and one never knows once the paper and column leaves Rosendale where it will find friendly readers.

My love for boats come mostly from my father, who loved water travel, whether it be rowing a boat, or going to Evergreen Park on the little yacht, or the big ferry across the Hudson, or on the Big Daylines.

My father was a quiet, modest, observing man and often liked to go alone to enjoy such simple pleasures like a ride of the then new big ferry. It was a nice Sunday afternoon, he closed his store and walked down to enjoy a round trip across the Hudson. (Of course this is no longer possible as there are no more ferries from Rondout.) It seems there were not too many passengers to distract him but as the big ferry was going out to the creek he was invited to the top deck to watch from there. It seems the pilot was one of his friends and customers and took him all around the splendid boat.

Of course, then he would insist, I also take a round trip across the Hudson not to be taken up on the deck but to see this very new big ferry. I said, "But Pa, I'm not going anywhere. You take a ferry to go somewhere." "That's alright," he would say, "It's a privilege and a pleasure to go across such picturesque waters on such a nice boat." So to satisfy him, I went.

When I was a little girl, and Kingston Point was a park, and not a jungle as it is today, he used to take me on a boat ride and row around the pond lilies, but he would not let me pick any. "Flowers were for growing and not for picking, because their lives are so short as it is."

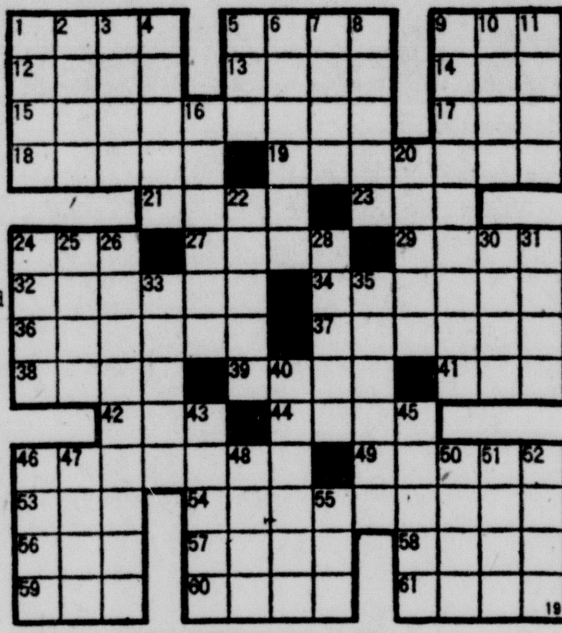

We used to stop at the Clermont replica at the lagoon which is completely overgrown today. It seems, Capt. Howard Wentworth, when he was young used to come to Kingston Point by Dayline and he too told Mr. Murphy, it should be brought back to being a park. With modern times it could be more picturesque, more convenient, and more used then it was. As it stands now, even an Indian guide would get lost there.

Completes Navy Course

MICHAEL NEWELL

One of 218 midshipmen from the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., who completed three-weeks indoctrination in Naval Aviation, Sept. 2, at the Naval Air Basic Training Command, Pensacola, Fla., was midshipman third class Michael T. Newell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Newell of Ellenville.

The midshipmen arrived at Pensacola Aug. 11 to undergo comprehensive instructions in the theory and practice of naval aviation to help prepare them for commissions in the Navy upon graduation from the academy.

Returns From Cruise

Edgar L. MacDaniel, aviation ordnanceman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferris MacDaniel of 5 Railroad Avenue, Hurley, returned to the Oceana Naval Air Station, Virginia Beach, Va., Aug. 31, while serving with Fighter Squadron 102 aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Forrestal. The squadron completed a seven-month tour with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean and visited ports in Italy, Turkey, Spain and Lebanon.

2,000 Wongs Are At West Coast Family Reunion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It was a typical family reunion—Wong style.

Some 2,000 members of America's biggest Chinese-American family got together in San Francisco Sunday. They represented 35,000 to 40,000 others bearing the ancient name of Wong.

They met in a $100,000 building—the Wong family headquarters—in colorful Chinatown. It was designed by architect Paul Wong and built by contractor Jack Lee Wong.

Several thousand years ago, somewhere around Canton, the Wong family began. Nobody knows much about the man responsible for it all. Family President Jack Wong called the members to order. There were brief speeches by him, Eastern President George Wong and Western National Chairman Albert W. Wong.

On the agenda were such topics as the Western ways of the younger generation, family disputes, the Wong scholarship program and family public relations.

The men—elders representing 15 regions of the United States—met in the fourth-floor auditorium. The room was shrouded by silk draperies—a gift from the Wongs of Hong Kong. Firecrackers, gongs and Chinese musicians combined to chase away evil spirits.

The women met two floors below. They heard the proceedings by loudspeakers. At the last reunion, in Boston three years ago, the ladies were barred altogether.

Started System

Friedrich Froebel, a German educator, founded the kindergarten system. Earlier schools for very young children had been established, but Froebel was the first to name such a school a kindergarten.

YOUR POCKETBOOK

Youngsters Are Being Told Story of Money Economy

By FAYE HENLE

It takes know-how on your part to handle your children's finances. For example:

Does Junior have to pay a federal income tax on money earned this summer?

The internal revenue service says he may earn up to $675 tax free during the year if, at the close of the calendar year, he is still under 19. Or if during the school year he is a full-time student. Or if you contribute to more than half of his support and therefore claim him as a dependent.

If your youngster's employer reported his earnings and withheld for his tax payments, your child should file a return. If his total earnings fall below the $675 mark, he will get a full refund. If he earned more than $675, he gets a partial refund.

Actually, your youngster may be more up on tax matters than you. Gaining national momentum in the schools is the IRS "Teaching Taxes Program." A special teachers' kit and student pamphlet have been devised to teach all there is to know about filing tax returns.

There is opportunity aplenty for youngsters to learn about other money handling matters too. The American Bankers Association is launching a full-scale educational program throughout the schools.

The goal is to impress upon youngsters of high school age how money originates in the economy and in the family till, and to explain how dollars go farther when they are siphoned into careful patterns of spending and saving.

Many local bank associations have prepared booklets on the operations of state banks, controlling family finances, how to make the best use of your bank and careers offered in banking. In many areas local bankers go into the schools to talk on topics as varied as "How Commercial Banks Help Farmers" to "Financing a Home." Offered also are films dealing with the fundamentals of banking, and publications prepared by ABA.

This program was developed after a series of surveys showed that only about 4 per cent of the nation's 10 million high school students ever take a course in economics.

Stressed throughout, an ABA spokesman tells us, is the story of our free enterprise system. To take the dullness away from a topic that does not normally thrill, some of this money teaching is offered in the form of a club activity.

More and more parents and grandparents are making stock gifts to minors. There are two reasons for doing this.

It reduces the size of an estate and is valid unless the gift was made in anticipation of death. It also reduces the donor's personal income tax. These funds, however, cannot be used for the support of a child. Now careful!

A recent Treasury ruling states that if a parent gives stock between the time a dividend is declared and paid, that dividend is taxable to the parent.

Say the dividend is declared the 17th of October, payable Oct. 10 and the gift was made Oct. 9. You pay the tax on that dividend.

Nixon's Election Paramount
Senator Bush Tells GOP Rally

The election of Richard M. Nixon in November is of "absolutely paramount importance" to the United States, U. S. Senator Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) told a cheering audience at the second annual Woodstock Republican Club rally and picnic on Saturday at Mink Hollow Ranch in Lake Hill.

More than 350 persons heard Sen. Bush praise the Vice President as a man who has grown tremendously in stature and represents a tower of strength to the free world.

Comparing Nixon with his Democratic opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), Sen. Bush said he felt the American people "will not elect to the presidency a young man who has not been tested and whose experience and training does not equip him to cope with the mounting challenge of Russian and international Communism."

Sen. Bush admitted that Kennedy has a good personality and a burning ambition to be president, but, he added: "Richard Nixon is a brilliant man, tried, tested and experienced. He has a record as the most active vice president in U. S. history. He stood up to Khrushchev in the 'kitchen debate' like a man and made the United States proud of him."

Sen. Bush also praised Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's running mate, as "one of the great men of our country." Lodge represented the United States at the U. N. with "grace and finesse and with great credit to the people of the United States."

A marked change in sentiment toward the Republican party has been evident since what Sen. Bush described as "the great shambles of Los Angeles." He predicted great gains for the G.O.P. in the south and southwest.

Peace Major Issue

The two major issues in the 1960 campaign, the speaker said, are (1) war and peace and (2) the economic growth, stability and increased productivity of the United States.

Who can best keep the United States, Nixon or Kennedy, the Senator asked. "The people have no doubt, I am sure," said Sen. Bush. "Nixon's splendid record in the field of foreign affairs makes him best suited for the great challenges that lie ahead."

Sen. Bush charged that Sen. Kennedy's statement that the United States had fallen behind Russia in the atomic race was absolutely false. "I believe the United States is today the strongest military power on earth and a Republican victory in November will keep it that way."

Sen. Bush assailed the post convention Congress, called by the Democrats, as a great failure. "It was a record of failure on civil rights, minimum wage bill, medical care for the aged and everything else," he said.

The so-called missile gap was created by the Truman administration, Sen. Bush charged, but it has been closed by the great work of the Eisenhower administration. Russia moved ahead of the U. S. in the missiles and atomic field in the five years between the end of the second war and the beginning of the Eisenhower administration.

Greatest Prosperity

Sen. Bush said the United States under Eisenhower has enjoyed the greatest employment, productivity and national income in its history. The national income has risen from 357 billion dollars in 1952 to 505 billion in 1960. The Republican party has the understanding of what it takes to create the climate and confidence in our government in the future, he said.

Rejecting the label of "party of big business" often applied to the G.O.P., Sen. Bush observed that the Department of Justice is more active than ever before in history in prosecuting anti-trust suits. "The Republican party is the party for all business," he said, "good, small, and big."

Sen. Bush urged his audience to support Nixon and "look forward in the light of the accomplishments of the Eisenhower administration." He persisted in his theme that Sen. Kennedy was too inexperienced to be entrusted with the problems of the future, citing the pre-convention criticism directed against Kennedy by former president Harry Truman and Sen. Byrd of Virginia, two top Democrats.

Vice President Nixon has told us his administration will be built on the accomplishments of the Eisenhower administration. That is the only one that can create the confidence and climate needed for the perilous years ahead," he concluded.

GOP Notables Attend

Supervisor Abram F. Molyneux of Woodstock was master of ceremonies and introduced among others: State Senator E. Ogden Bush, Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and Congressman J. Ernest Wharton. He also introduced Woodstock officials, including Superintendent of Highways, Albert Cashdollar; Justices of the Peace, Charles Farley and Rudi Baugarten; Councilman John Pike and Town Clerk Marjorie Harder; also G.O.P. county candidates Coroner Francis J. McCordle and County Clerk Lawrence Craft.

Congressman Wharton told the group he was greatly elated that Vice President Nixon had just announced plans for solution of the farm problem. He said the "Southern chairman" in Congress had rejected one of his bills on the farm problem, but several features of Wharton's bill would be included in the Nixon version. He also promised cooperation between the state and federal government on the water pollution problem in the Hudson river. Referring to the recent Hurricane Donna damages in Windham, Wharton said the speedy repair work there reflected great credit on the state and area G.O.P. leadership.

Supervisor Molyneux in his introductory remarks charged that the Woodstock Democratic Club had endorsed the recent Sane Nuclear Policy committee rally in Woodstock. He referred to an article which recently appeared in the Ontario Record, quoting U. S. Senator Dodd (D-Conn.) that SANE had been infiltrated by Communists. The article had made reference to the Woodstock rally.

Vern L. May, president of the Republican Club, welcomed the crowd and spoke briefly on the aims of the club. He introduced Supervisor Molyneux as master of ceremonies. The Rev. Jeremiah F. Nemecek, pastor of St. John's Roman Catholic parish, gave the invocation and Mrs. Jane Molyneux sang the national anthem accompanied by the Clem Nessel ensemble. Lee Sullivan, who was in the cast of Brigadoon, sang several tenor solos during the day.

The rally and picnic at Mink Hollow Ranch was preceded by a colorful, old fashioned parade that included among other features a replica of Abraham Lincoln log cabin and the Bell Ringers of Kingston. The parade started at West Hurley and went through Zena and Woodstock Village.

During the drawings held at the end of the program, William West of Woodstock won a water color painting donated by John Pike. Mrs. Frank Dunn of Woodstock was awarded a television set and Mrs. Alice Wardell of Woodstock won a hundred silver dollars. Sixteen other prizes were awarded. Mrs. Wardell then donated the $100 prize to the Woodstock Republican Club.

Smylie Suggests
Change in Habits

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho today told Americans to discard "some of the tired gray-flannel habits of the fifties" in order to meet the industrial growth of Russia.

"You get a little upset when you look at the very real tempo of the industrial effort in Russia," he said in a speech prepared for the American Bankers Association 86th annual convention.

"We will compete successfully with these people in the market places of the world," he added, "but we are going to have to put away some of the tired gray-flannel habits of the fifties and get back some of the spirit, vigor and courage that built America into a first-rank industrial power in the first place."

Sweden Outlines
New Welfare Plan

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden decided Sunday to march ahead to a care-for-all welfare state under the command of Socialist Premier Tage Erlander.

General elections to the powerful second chamber of the Swedish Parliament gave the head of the world's oldest Labor government a strong vote of confidence.

Preliminary figures showed the Social-Democratic Labor party, which has dominated the Swedish Parliament since 1932, outpolled the Conservatives and Communists.

Central campaign issues were: 1. The 4.2 per cent turnover tax imposed by the government to pay for the steadily rising costs of the social welfare state. 2. The compulsory pension bill, adopted by Parliament last year, which will give every Swede, retiring at age 67, 65 per cent of his average salary during his 15 best working years.

Restaurant Blaze

DUNKIRK, N.Y. (AP) — Fire burned out a restaurant and garage near the center of this Chautauque County community Sunday night, and billowing smoke forced about 20 guests to flee the adjoining Hotel Dunkirk.

Firemen said one unofficial damage estimate was $50,000. Four firemen were treated for cuts from flying glass.

The blaze was confined to the one-story restaurant and garage. Its cause was not determined immediately.

Prominent GOP Woman

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Marion C. Bennett, a member of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee, died Sunday at the inn she owned and operated here. She was 69.

Mrs. Bennett was vice chairman of the Montgomery County Republican Committee and represented the Fourth Judicial District on the state committee.

Last year, retail food stores of all types sold $51,680,000,000 worth of their wares.

Nehru to Sign
New Indus Pact

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India arrived today to sign the Indus water treaty with Pakistan—a treaty made possible by a billion-dollar investment for peace by the World Bank and six of its members.

After the signing, Nehru will stay in Pakistan five days to talk with President Mohammad Ayub Khan about the Kashmir dispute and other problems between the two countries.

Ayub has expressed the hope the division of waters of the Indus Basin will lead to a settlement of other issues between the two countries. Nehru and Ayub were cheered as they rode together through the streets in an open car.

Bar Pope's Envoy

BERLIN (AP) — The Communist regime of East Germany has barred the Pope's envoy from East Berlin.

Archbishop Corrado Bafale says he was prevented from attending a prayer service in a Roman Catholic church in East Berlin Saturday night. The archbishop is an Italian national with ambassadorial rank as the papal nuncio to West Germany.

Prince Baby Sits

TOKYO (AP) — Crown Prince Akihito said today that he sometimes changes his 7-month-old son's diapers and bathes him "when no one else is around."

The heir to Japan's ancient throne made the disclosure at an unusual news conference when the palace set a precedent by admitting foreign newsmen for the first time.

Two Area Women
Are Attending
Parley on Aging

Two area representatives are attending the state-wide meeting today of the New York State Committee of One Hundred for the 1961 White House Conference on Aging at the Assembly Chamber, Albany. The session continues through Tuesday.

They are Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly of Kingston, and Mrs. Harold K. Joseph of Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Connelly will also attend a reception to be given by Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller at the executive mansion following today's sessions, from 4:30 to 6 p. m.

She will also attend a reception on Tuesday from 8:30 to 10 p. m. at the Harlequin Room of Sheraton-Ten Eyck Hotel at the invitation of committee officials.

The conference opened with registration at 9:30 this morning.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller was scheduled to address the conference at 11 o'clock.

Crash Injuries Fatal

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—John Howard, 20, of 54 Ann St., died in St. Luke's Hospital Sunday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Sept. 16.

Howard, who was driving alone, was thrown out of his car which hit a wall and overturned.

Program of Events Is Announced Here By Sisterhood

Mrs. Herbert Kletske, president of Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel announced today that the first annual meeting of the Sisterhood was held in the social hall of the Temple, 243 Albany Avenue, on Wednesday, Sept. 14, at 12:30 p. m., where the members enjoyed a box lunch, with dessert and beverage served by the hostesses, Mrs. Edwin L. Wetterhahn and Mrs. Sidney D. Wolff.

Three new members were introduced and welcomed by the group. They are: Mrs. Martin Gallatin, Mrs. Gerald Farber and Mrs. Arthur Landsman.

The schedule of events for the year was announced and details of these will appear in the press from time to time.

The first rummage sale of the season, chaired by Mrs. Richard Kalish, will be held on October 3, 4 and 5, at 58 North Front Street from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The annual roast beef supper will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 2, from 5:30 p. m. until all are served, at the Temple on Albany Avenue. Mrs. Harry Gold and Mrs. Jay Melton are co-chairmen of this event, which is looked forward to by so many.

Reports were given by the standing committee chairmen and a great deal of enthusiasm was shown. A report on the Religious School was given by Cantor Julian C. Lore, and Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom set the mood for the year in his address.

The Sisterhoods of the three Kingston Congregations have decided that because of Columbus Day falling on the second Wednesday of October, the Sisterhoods will hold their October meetings on the third Wednesday.

In the next few days plans will be announced for "An Evening of Poetry" which is being planned for Saturday, Oct. 15.

Scout Troop 12 Has Honor Court; 34 Earn Awards

Highlight of Boy Scout Troop 12 meeting last week was the court of honor conducted by Ralph Shapiro, recently re-appointed scoutmaster.

Dawayne Lake received his Second Class badge from Assistant Scoutmaster James Zahorski.

Assistant Scoutmaster Harold Liberty presented First Class badges to Dawayne Lake, Michael Greenwald, Frank Carpio and Russell Witkowski.

The rank of Star Scout was awarded to Edward and William Bruckert, Jerry White, and Peter Wells by Scoutmaster Shapiro.

A total of 34 merit badges earned by members of the troop were awarded by Advancement Committee member Raymond Wells.

Mothers of boys receiving badges of rank, were presented miniature pins by their sons. Members of the Rattlesnake Patrol were given pocket knives by immediate past Scoutmaster Richard Seism, for having won the inter-patrol contest three months in a row.

Other important events of the meeting included reorganization of the troop into five patrols, scoutcraft instruction in first aid, announcements and games. Refreshments were served to the scouts by the Mothers' Club.

Boys interested in joining the Boy Scouts should ask a Scout to invite them to their Scout meeting.

Radio Engineers To Attend Dinner

For its inaugural meeting the Catskill Subsection, The Institute of Radio Engineers, has invited John C. McPherson of IBM headquarters to describe IBM's new systems Research Institute.

He will address the group at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Beekman Arms, Rhinebeck.

The IRE Mid-Hudson Subsection and the Association of Computing Machinery have been invited to attend.

McPherson, an IBM vice president, has served in other positions within the corporation prior to appointment as director of the IBM Systems Research Institute, including director of engineering, manager of patent research and development, and programming research.

Educated at Princeton University, he has maintained an active affiliation with educational institutions by serving in advisory positions to the Department of Electrical Engineering and Graduate Council at Princeton and the Institute of Mathematical Sciences at New York University. He has also served as a consultant in the office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense.

Reservations for the dinner may be obtained from executive officers, including Ellsworth L. Johnson, William D. Reiner and John Dent.

The Systems Research Institute will conduct graduate level research and education in the use of program controlled machines and their organization into systems solutions of data processing problems.

Several factors have led to establishment of the institute, notably the increasing complexity of business and industrial awareness toward system orientation, need for new systems and application, and the rapidly increasing need for competent systems engineering.

Organization, staffing and preparation of the institute's curriculum have been oriented toward setting a standard of professional excellence for the industry. The institute will operate at the level and along the lines of a university graduate school.

The faculty will include senior IBM professionals and experts from industry and education.

The computer installation at the institute is primarily intended as a laboratory tool for the instruction of systems engineers. It will also be used in development of new systems approaches to significant customer problems. Consideration is being given to secondary employment of the computing capability in support of non-profit research and educational institutions.

Accused Slayer Hunted by FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stanley William Fitzgerald, a California check passer now charged with a vicious killing, today was put on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives.

According to California police, Fitzgerald met two other men in a San Francisco bar Aug. 2 and took them to a stolen station wagon to a tavern at Truckee, Calif.

After some drinking, the three started driving again and when they reached an isolated area Fitzgerald produced an automatic and ordered his companions to disrobe.

A wild battle ensued in which one of the intended robbery victims was shot in the arm and leg and the other was killed by five bullets in the head and chest.

Fitzgerald is then alleged to have robbed the two of several hundred dollars and a number of payroll checks, leaving the scene with their clothing.

Fitzgerald is 39 and a native of Oakland. He is of medium height and heavy build, with blue-gray eyes and thinning reddish-blond hair.

His record file showed that when drinking, he frequently sings Irish lullabies at bars.

Boy Confesses He Killed Woman

SNYDER, Tex. (AP)—A Snyder boy has admitted he killed a farmer's wife with bullets and left her body where she fell in a cotton field Aug. 8.

The youth said he mistook her for a male Latin-American farm worker and told questioners coldly "I hate 'em."

Dist. Atty. Wayland Holt declined to name the boy, 14 years old, 5 feet 1, and weighing less than 100 pounds, except to say he is the eldest of six children in a family of moderate means. He is being held without formal charge.

The body of Mary Inez Wilson, 36, was found face down in the field by relatives. Officers said eight to 10 bullets from a .22 caliber rifle struck her, most of them from the waist up.

First Frigate

First war frigate was built in England in 1652. This was the Constant Warwick, a vessel about 90 feet long and carrying 42 guns.

SAUGERTIES NEWS Susans Dominate Pageant; Village Girl Wins Title

Three Susans dominated the sixth annual presentation of the Miss Saugerties Pageant at the finals Saturday night in Saugerties High School Auditorium.

Green-eyed Susan Jane Schirmer of Saugerties Village won the Miss Saugerties title; a $350 scholarship; a course at John Robert Powers School, Albany, the pageant trophy, and a chance to compete in the Miss New York State Pageant in Kingston next year.

Brown-eyed Susan Ellen Frattini of Saugerties-Woodstock Road won the admiration of her fellow contestants, the Miss Congeniality title, and a pageant trophy.

Hazel-eyed Susan Jane Talbert, Miss New York State, and Miss Congeniality of the Miss America Pageant, won the hearts of the audience estimated at over 500.

The 1961 Saugerties queen, a 17-year-old blonde, is the daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Ernest E. Schirmer. She won the swimsuit preliminary on Friday night and garnered enough points with a piano selection in the talent portion of the pageant and other qualifications to win the title.

She was crowned by Nancy Misasi, the outgoing Saugerties queen.

Runner-ups were Lorraine Gunn, a 17-year-old blue-eyed blonde of West Saugerties. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gunn, and Pamela Hargreaves, a 17-year-old with blue eyes and auburn hair. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hargreaves of Lafayette Street, Saugerties.

The other finalists were 17-year-old Barbara Lang, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lang of West Camp, and Susan Frattini, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frattini.

Miss Frattini, a newcomer to the Saugerties High School student body was selected by her fellow contestants for the title of Miss Congeniality. Miss New York State presented this trophy.

Preliminary winners before the finalists were named included Lorraine Gunn in the swimsuit competition, and Pamela Hargreaves for her presentation of the Charleston in the talent test.

Sally Ann Davi, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Davi of Glasco was a preliminary talent winner on Friday night. She offered an accordion solo.

The five finalists were given two questions to answer extemporaneously, and judged on their adeptness in handling the subjects.

Also in the talent competition Saturday night were Eileen Jahn of Blue Mountain, who offered an interpretive dance; Dec Offermann of the village, a clarinet selection; Donna Crawford of Saugerties-Woodstock Road, a pantomime, and Valerie Herb of Malden-on-Hudson, a comedy reading.

The Saturday night swimsuit competition included Lorraine Gunn, Sally Davi, Karen Hornbeck, Barbara Lang, Carol Niefer, and Barbara Ward. Commentary for this portion and for the evening gown tests was presented by Mrs. Alex Osina.

Organ music before the pageant was offered by William Putnam, and during the pageant by Mrs. LeRoy Harris. Mrs. William C. Plimley also served as accompanist for the talent portion.

Pageant Director Joseph Bosco served as master of ceremonies.

Nancy Misasi spoke of her experiences as the 1960 queen, and later presented a soft-shoe dance which she performed at the New York State Pageant in July.

The Rip Van Winkle Four, a local Barbershop Quartet presented a medley of songs during the judging.

Judges were Mrs. Elizabeth Askue of Kingston, a graduate of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, and a member of the Coach House Players of Kingston; Bertram W. Burns of New York City, TV critic of New York World-Telegram, and former editor of the Saugerties Post; Gore Vidal of Barrytown, noted playwright and author, and Democratic candidate for Congress in the 29th Congressional District, and Lt. Col. John R. Barton of Newburgh, deputy commander of Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh.

Music for the coronation ball in the high school gymnasium following the pageant was by Peter Ferraro and his orchestra.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Premier Leslie Frost will be present.

Centerville Vols Win Assemblage Day Competition
Centerville Fire Company's five-man team won the Assemblage Day fireman's trials over five other local volunteer companies Saturday morning with a score of 13.1 seconds.

Nancy Misasi, Miss Saugerties of 1960 presented the championship trophy to John C. Paige, chief of Centerville Fire District.

Malden-West Camp Vols, who won the July 4 competition scored 14.1, one second behind the Centerville squad. Saxton was third and Cedar Grove, fourth.

It was a sad day for Glasco Vols who were disqualified. In their enthusiasm for a low score, they ran over the starting line. In an act of good sportsmanship they offered to run the trial again, even though it could not be counted in the competition. The second try was doomed when their pump failed.

The trial consisted of a time test to lay hose and hit a 10-inch hole in a barrel set up on Main Street.

Judges were former Kingston Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Paul Boehm, past chief of Saxton Fire Company and Ernest Ahlberg, of New Paltz, president of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The competition was held after the Assemblage parade and opening ceremonies.

In the afternoon program thousands lined the streets to hear the band concert by Peter Ferraro and his Local 215 AFM orchestra made available through a grant from the musicians trust fund.

Throughout the afternoon the Continental Cadets of Catskill and the Schenectady Piper Band presented marching and maneuvering exhibitions.

Township organizations, businesses and the Armed Forces presented displays along the streets of the Assemblage area.

Alex Osina and Nat Aaron were co-chairmen of the event, sponsored by Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce designed to present Saugerties on parade.

'Savings? I Haven't Any.'

Early in 1960, an old friend asked me where he and his wife could live comfortably on his $165 monthly Social Security payment.

I asked him, "What about your accumulated savings?"

"Savings," he snorted. "Why, I haven't got any!"

Here is a brilliant man who never got his economic house in order. He worked his way through college pressing clothes. He earned two advanced degrees at a top-ranking graduate school. And for 40 years he had positions paying him from $6,000 to $15,000 a year.

During these four decades, thrift and saving played a very minor role in his life. Yet, how easy it would have been for him when he was 25 years old and earning $6,000 a year to set aside $500 and, with the money, buy a life insurance policy.

In his early 30's his salary suddenly jumped from $6,000 to $10,000 a year. That quick $4,000 increase was immediately absorbed by higher living standards. Saving was forgotten. And when, at 44, he reached the $15,000 salary class, further spending habits were developed.

A reasonable program of thrift and saving 22 years ago would have saved him and his wife from the rugged retirement period of the present. This is a dreary year for him. And his financial future is bleak.

Every time the U. S. government announces plans to assume the financial responsibilities of individuals in their retirement, the whole warp and woof of thrift and saving is weakened. Right now, America is paying the way for millions of people who in 1970, 1980, 1990 will be asking, "Where can I live on my Social Security allowance?"

And when someone asks, "How about your savings?" they will also snort, "Why, I haven't got any!"

The crucial thrift and saving periods are from 25 to 35 years of age, and from 35 to 45. If thrift and savings plans are not set up by then, probably they never will be.

The crucial age is around 25. When a young person gets a job, he should establish a budget that enables him to save about 10 percent of his earnings. Half of these savings should go for insurance, especially if the person is inclined to squander money.

He should have a savings bank account and if a surplus of savings remains, he might start buying some sound common stocks.

Some time during his 35 to 40 year period, his earnings may double. He is naturally entitled to a higher standard of living, but when his earnings increase, his savings should also keep pace. The man mentioned above is one who did none of these things. Yet from the age 25 to 44 — 19 years — he could have saved from $500 to $1,000 a year with reasonable financial providence.

And for 21 years — from age 44 to 65 — he could have saved $2,000 a year. This money, properly invested, would now amount to more than $100,000, and at age 66 he wouldn't have a financial worry the rest of his life.

There is no substitute for financial planning and self-reliance.

Rockville Man Is New President of Utilities Group

LAKE PLACID, N. Y. (AP) — Raymond C. Williams of Rockville Centre, L. I., was elected president Saturday of the State Municipal Electrical Utilities Association.

He succeeds Mayor Carl Sanford of Jamestown, who was elected a trustee.

Vice Presidents named at the closing session of the group's 30th annual conference were:

Albert J. Petrie of Mohawk, first vice president; Mayor William J. Evans of Greene, second vice president; Joseph Waikus of Wells-ville, third vice president.

Deo B. Colburn of Lake Placid was re-elected treasurer and Milton Van Riper of Fergusville was re-elected secretary.

About 300 representatives of municipal utilities attended the three-day conference.

Newsman Is Appointed By Democrats to Job

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — William Lowenberg Jr., legislative correspondent for the Albany Times-Union, is the new public relations officer for the Democratic minority leaders of the legislature.

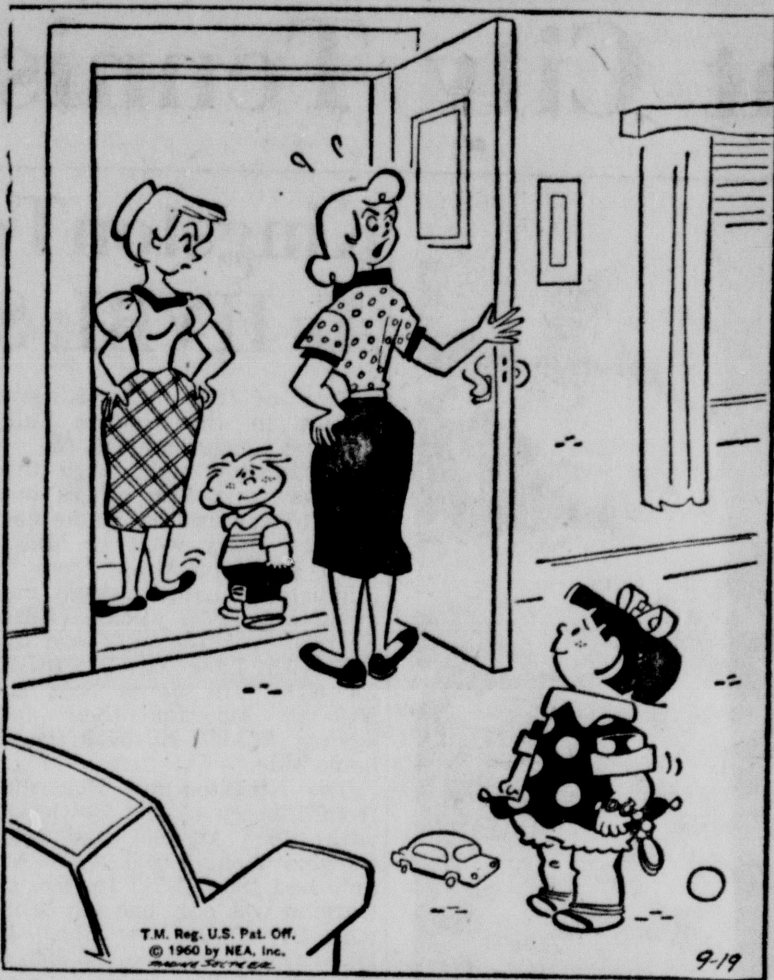

Lowenberg, 43, was appointed Saturday by Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Anthony Travia to the $12,000-a-year job.

Lowenberg's official title will be director of research for the Democratic leaders.

The leaders said the post had been created to present to the public "the role of the Democratic minority in forcing the Republican majority to take action for the benefit of the people."

Two Are Proposed

By Governor for Jobs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today announced the appointments of John T. Hamlin, Holcomb, to the Advisory Council on Pensions, and Dr. John P. Lambert, Mount Kisco, to the board of visitors, Westfield State Farm.

Both appointments are subject to confirmation by the Senate when it reconvenes.

Hamlin, president and chairman of the board of the Hamlin National Bank, replaces Joseph Mruk of Buffalo, who resigned.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Tall and handsome Dr. Charles P. Wolbers, the State University coach, walked through the editorial room door and for some strange reason touched off a chemical reaction of tennis and baseball through our mind.

Why, you may ask, would the appearance of the talented coach trigger such a reaction?

It's a story that goes back several years when the baseball world still retained a measure of sanity—the Dodgers were in Brooklyn and the Giants romped over the hallowed acres under Coogan's Bluff. And this was a year when the most appealing of all World Series competition—the Yankees vs. the Dodgers—was about to get under way.

The society editor who sits across the way from us is a highly talented, sophisticated woman, but incredibly naive about the foldover of professional sports. While the sports fraternity was highly agitated about the outcome of the fall classic and everybody choosing up sides, this remarkable young woman blurted across the desk one day:

"Who's playing in the series this year?" She bravely survived the scorn and guffaws that descended upon her from the sports department and assorted wags in the editorial room and retaliated nicely with:

"Why don't you print something about a real sport... like tennis."

The lady was right. Tennis is a wonderful sport, but there was a dearth of tennis news in those days—not too many years ago, either. It was just before the IBM influence in tennis was asserting itself locally. And then Charles P. Wolbers came into the picture.

It's Big News Now:

As even the society editor must know by now, the Dodgers are in Los Angeles and the Giants are the toast of San Francisco. But there is no longer a dearth of tennis news on the local front, thanks to Wolbers. The steady progress in the Mid-Hudson tennis tournament at New Paltz soared to a roaring climax this summer that definitely established tennis as a major area spectator sport. The ancient game is enjoying its loftiest estate since the pre-war era of Randall Rose, Gardner Mulloy, et al.

Wolbers more than anyone else deserves the plaudits for the fabulous success of the New Paltz tournament, which has not only made the public more tennis conscious than ever before, but has brought brilliant talent to the state college courts. The tournament is bound to develop into one of the major events on the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association agenda in the not too distant future. A tip of the hat to Charlie Wolbers for putting tennis on the sports pages. And do you get the hang of the story?

A Wartime Saga:

Max Aduchefsky of the City Engineer's office had a wartime buddy on Saipan, who has since earned a large measure of literary fame, but who never forgot the trumpet man from Kingston. Now managing editor of Saga Magazine, John Ross has just had his first full length novel published. Entitled Nothing But The Truth, it is based on a famous 1956 trial in the deep south and a lawyer's struggle for justice in the central character in a magazine article about the South Pacific war, in which he described Max as "one of the most remarkable soldiers I ever saw." Max is happy about John Ross' latest success. "He's a brilliant writer," says Max, "and one of the really fine men I have known in my life."

H. Bostic and Spiesman Member-Guest Winners

Harvey Bostic and his Stamford Country Club guest, Ed Spiesman, won first place in Wiltwyck Country Club's annual Member-Guest tournament in a matching of cards with the team of Dr. Murray Fletcher and Dick Eck, of Ellenville.

The teams tied with best ball 135's in the regular 36-hole competition on Saturday and Sunday. On match of cards for first place, the Bostic-Spiesman team won with a birdie on the first hole. The winners had 67-68 to 67-68 for the runnerup.

Charles J. (Jimmy) Turk and his guest, Frank Vogt of Twaalfskill placed third with 137. The team of Bill McCullen and Ed Travers was fourth with 138, while Bill Marks and Bob Botsford (Dutchess) posted a 139 for fifth place.

Mrs. Shute Wins Women's Title Over Mrs. Fowler

What had expected to be a thrilling match turned into a simple warmup for Marty Kaye yesterday as he easily stopped the veteran George Baron, 6-0, 6-2, to capture his second straight Kingston Singles tennis crown. It took Kaye only 45 minutes to dispose of Baron at the Forsyth Park courts.

In the finals of the first women's tournament ever held at the local courts, Mrs. Ernest L. Shute rallied to trim Mrs. Jansen Fowler, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1, in a well played match.

Kaye, the top tennis performer in the area, never let Baron get untracked. The only thing Baron won during the day was the toss and he was able to serve first. He won the first point with a sharply placed drive off his backhand, but after that Kaye took over.

His steady deep drives and service were too much for Baron to cope with and he lost the first set, 6-0, with Kaye playing almost perfect tennis.

Consistent Hitter Baron tried to make a match of it in the second set. He was down, 3-2, and was three times within a point of winning Kaye's service but he failed to take advantage of the opportunities and couldn't even the score. Kaye was consistent, hitting well and never giving up on a shot. Baron, who won the title in 1957 and 1958, was never a factor this time.

Mrs. Fowler, wife of a Kingston attorney, grabbed an early lead over her opponent in the women's finals and captured the first set, 7-5. However, Mrs. Shute, whose husband is a retired Naval Commander, rallied in the second set to win, 6-4.

The champion played her opponent's backhand relentlessly in the third set and Mrs. Fowler's stamina appeared to leave her. Mrs. Shute ran out the set at 6-1 to win the championship.

There was one tragic note in the tournament. Ed Lacey, a veteran tennis player, died on the courts Saturday, the day before the finals. He had been playing in the tourney for many years and his loss will be keenly felt.

Yanks Complete Sweep of O's; Combination Is 7 for AL Flag

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Suddenly the New York Yankees are in a position for "magic number" talk about pennant clinching instead of a nail-biting percentage lead.

The Yanks rose to the occasion to put down the Baltimore challenge over the weekend, sweeping all four games to break the American League race wide open. Friday afternoon they led the Orioles by one percentage point. Today they sport a four-game lead over both Baltimore and Chicago.

The Yanks have 11 games to play. Baltimore and Chicago each have nine. Any combination of seven Yank victories or Oriole and White Sox defeats would nail it down.

Danger Ahead

There still is danger ahead for Manager Casey Stengel whose Yanks have found Washington their most troublesome rival. Five of their last 11 games are with the Senators, the other six with always tough Boston.

After beating Baltimore 7-3 with a slashing 12-hit attack in Sunday's opener, the Yanks came up with a gutted pitching job by Ralph Terry in the 2-0 second game.

Terry had a perfect game going until he walked Brooks Robinson on a 3-2 count with two out in the seventh. Ronnie Hansen broke the no-hit spell by driving Terry's first pitch in the eighth over third base for a single. Jackie Brandt collected the other hit, a single with two out in the ninth.

Chisox Lose Second

Chicago missed a chance to take over second place all by itself. The White Sox whipped up a 15-hit attack, drubbing Detroit in the first game 8-4 with Nellie Fox chipping in three singles. The Tigers eked out a 7-6 margin in the second game.

Boston trimmed Washington 3-1 on a five-hit job by Bill Monbouquette and Mike Fornieles. Despite two-hit pitching by Cleveland's Bobby Locke and Don Newcombe, Kansas City edged the Tribe in the first game 3-2. Cleveland won the second 9-2 behind Barry Latman.

Costly Rundown

Despite homers by Rocky Colavito and Charlie Maxwell, the White Sox took charge of the first game at Detroit. They led in the long second game, too, but lost it in the seventh inning. The winning run scored from third while the Sox were running down Eddie Yost between third and second base, for the third out.

Willie Tasby's home run and a two-run single by Lou Clinton were the big blows for the Red Sox against Washington.

Dick Williams' two-run homer nullified Cleveland's two-hit pitching in the first game but Walt Bond knocked in three runs with a homer and double as the Tribe squared matters with the A's in the second game.

Law Wins 20th Game For Bucs

Roll out the barrel you Pirate fans. The fighting Bucs are practically in. Only another baseball miracle can rob Pittsburgh of its first National League pennant since 1927.

With 11 games to go, Danny Murtaugh's Pirates led by six full games over St. Louis and 6½ over Milwaukee. The Cardinals have 13 to play, the Braves only 10. The "magic number" is seven. Vern Law and Vinegar Bend Mizell did the strong arm jobs Sunday that gave the Pirates a doubleheader sweep over Cincinnati 5-3 and 1-0. For Law it was victory No. 20 on the fourth try. Mizell, the ex-Cardinal, chimed in with a neat three-hit shutout for his 12th triump.

Broglie Gets 20th

The Cards also won, edging San Francisco 4-3 as Ernie Broglie joined Law and Milwaukee's Warren Spahn as 20-game winners. Milwaukee thumped Philadelphia 7-1 on Joey Jay's four-hitter and homers by Bill Bruton and Joe Adcock. The game was called in the bottom of the eighth by rain. Chicago hit three homers in a five-run sixth inning and hung a 5-2 defeat on Los Angeles. The defeat left the defending champion Dodgers mathematically eliminated from anything better than a tie.

Don Hoak was the big man for the Pirates at Cincinnati. The fiery third baseman drove in two decisive runs in the opener and scored the only run of the second game on Dick Schofield's double after hitting a double off Bob Purkey.

Broglie had beaten every other club in the league but the Giants who traded him to St. Louis last year. He became the Cards' first 20-game winner since Harvey Haddix in 1953. Stan Musial drove in two Card runs and Ken Boyer and Daryl Spencer each knocked in one to beat Mike McCormick. Milwaukee knocked out rookie Art Mahaffey in the second inning. It was his third straight defeat after winning his first five. Only 10,561, smallest ever for a Sunday game, turned out at County Stadium in Milwaukee.

Don Zimmer, Ron Santo and George Altman hit home runs during the sixth-inning Chicago rally against the Dodgers' Johnny Podres. Bob Anderson won his eighth with help from Mel Wright.

Kingston Teams Do Well As HVBL Starts Season

Two of the four Kingston entries in the Hudson Valley Bowling League started the season Saturday night with three straight wins. The others managed to capture one game each.

Jones Dairy went to Middletown and won three from the Middletown Lanes though managing only 2777 sticks. Buster Ferraro was the only one over 600 with lines of 226-187-218 for 631. The Jones boys shot 907-925-945 for their total against 817-901-2619 for the home side.

The Kingston five won three from Liberty at the Bowlerama with Joe Ausanio and Vince Carpino leading the way. Ausanio had 196-205-211 for 612 and Carpino was only one pin behind with 212-207-192 for 611. Jim Dice scored 228-180-168-602 for the visitors. The locals managed 972-901-951 for a neat 2826 total.

Though hitting a brilliant 3042 middle effort and scoring 3009 for the evening, the Unsponsored "5" managed to win only one game at Poughkeepsie against a "new look" Dutchess Rec five. Only John Avello remains with the defending champions, who are seeking their third straight title.

Lawrence Hits 651

Bill Lawrence clubbed a gaudy 651 triple to lead Kingston. His games were 248-197-209. Dick Lawrence stroked 176-224-246 for 646. Dick Catanzaro led the Recs with 181-211-228-620 and Joe Melito added 233-188-192 for 613. The locals won the middle game with their 1042 blast against 973 for the Recs.

Rocca-Perez, Midgets On Next Mat Program

The famed Madison Square Garden tag team combination of Argentine Rocca and Miguel Perez headlines the greatest wrestling card ever presented in Kingston on Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the municipal auditorium.

Backing up the Rocca-Perez main event combine will be two other tag team matches, one featuring four midget wrestlers.

Promoter Ed Cecolini of White Plains has lined up a new partner, The Rebel, a new Texas sensation, for Dr. Jerry Graham in the best-of-three falls feature event against Rocca and Perez.

The popular Bavarian Boys have been booked for the semi-final tag team event against Don Stevens and the new Mr. America.

Several popular performers are scheduled to appear in solo, 30-minute timed bouts.

Bruno Sammartino, idol of the distaff rooters, takes on Jack McArthur in a one-fall bout.

Pompero Firpo, one of the top men in the game today, takes on agile Tony Marino in the second 30-minute event.

A newcomer who bills himself as the Red Terror meets Jose Romero in the opening bout.

The identity of the four midgets will be announced later, Cecolini said.

Change Is Noted In ENYGA Slate

A change in the Eastern New York Golf Assn 1960 tournament schedule, has been made known by Alex Perle, committee chairman.

Instead of concluding this Wednesday at the Normanside Country Club in Delmar with the Ray Delahant Memorial trophy event and the season's end dinner, the tournament schedule will terminate on Sept. 28.

The change was brought about because the Sept. 21 event listed for the Troy Country Club had to be postponed because of the heavy downpour of rain.

Pierce H. Russell, president of the Troy club and ENYGA Executive committee member, arranged for the Sept. 28 date at the course.

Sig Makofski of Edison Club in Schenectady, is expected to be on hand at Normanside. He is an outstanding basketball, football and golf star.

The two Kingston representatives in the Hudson Valley Women's league launched the 1960-61 season by winning split decisions Sunday.

The defending champion Manhattan Bowling Balls, with one change in the lineup, won an important 2-1 decision over the Campi-Tarsio Lanes with a rousing 2752 series.

Sangi's Bowlero tripped the strong Dutchess Rec squad, 2-1, at the Bowlero lanes in Kingston.

Top shooter of the weekend was Hilda Murphy of Manhattans, with 599 on lines of 212, 208 and 179. The Manhattans shot team games of 913, 968 and 871.

Neil Alverson, who replaced Dot Rawling in the anchor slot, fired 208-557. Ada Dubost decked 206-576. Sis Balash 484, and Rose Schatzel 206-536. Jo Wolfe powered 224-581 for Campi-Tarsio.

Evelyn Gross anchored the Bowlero Beauties with 577 on 202-181-194. Ethel Henderson shot 226 high single and 564. Rosemary Scall, the top woman bowler in Poughkeepsie, led the Recs with 547 and Marion Jaycox shot 539.

Winners Lead Circuit With Two Victories

Mark down the Kingston Sport Club as a contender for the Central New York State Soccer League championship. Yesterday the locals won their second game in as many starts, tripping the Albany Sport Club, 4-1, at the capital city field.

The winners went to the offense early and scored at the nine minute mark of the first quarter with Alex Dirks putting in the goal. Moments later George Vizvary made an 18-yard penalty shot.

While the defense excelled and kept the home side deep in its own territory most of the way, the Kingston offense scored again at the 20 minute mark with Dirks putting in the goal with a beautiful placed overhead shot. This made the scoreboard read, 3-0, at halftime.

Excellent Defense

The home side had control of the ball during the first 20 minutes of the second quarter but the Kingston defense was excellent. Dirks scored again at the 55 minute mark to zoom the margin to 4-0. The losers tallied late in the game, but it was not enough.

The locals will celebrate their first anniversary Saturday at 8:30 p. m. at the Elks Hall with a variety show. Sunday they will meet Schenectady at the Spring Lake Soccer field with game time scheduled for 3 p. m.

US Davis Cuppers Stop Venezuela

CLEVELAND (AP)—With a victory over Venezuela safely tucked away, America's Davis Cup youngsters were only two matches away today from a crack at Australia's champions.

The Philippines, Eastern Zone champions, and Italy's European victors still stand in America's path—but the U. S. and Australia have reached the challenge round every year since 1938 and are favored to meet again.

Australia, winner over the U. S. eight of the last 10 years, holds a 9-7 edge over the Americans since they started their exclusive matches 22 years ago. None were held during the war.

Earl Buchholz and Chuck McKinley, both of St. Louis wrapped up the American Zone title Sunday as they defeated Venezuela's Ivo Pimentel and Marcos Gambus in the doubles, 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

America had swept the opening singles as Barry McKay of Dayton defeated Gambus 6-1, 6-1, 6-0, and Bernard (Tut) Barten, Dallas southpaw, smothered Pimentel 6-0, 6-1, 6-1. They changed opponents for today's meaningful singles on the Cleveland Skating Club's clay court.

Date and site of the meeting with the Philippines are undetermined, but Capt. Dave Freed of the U. S. netters said it may be in Australian on grass courts, in November. The winner meets Italy for the right to challenge Australia.

Mickey Wright Sets Women's Golf Record

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—San Diego's Mickey Wright set a Ladies Professional Golf Association record with the four subpar rounds that snagged top money in the $8,250 Memphis Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Her 72-hole total over the 6,380-yard, 36-38-74 Ridgeway Country Club course was an 18-under-par 278. Her margin of victory after Sunday's final birdie was 12 strokes.

"It's wonderful when you can put four eights together like this," said Miss Wright as she collected her $1,247. The four were 66-71-70-71.

The previous LPGA record of 279 for a 72-hole tournament was set in 1956 by Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., in the St. Petersburg Open.

Runnels Is Playing With Stomach Ulcer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pete Runnels, the American League batting leader, has played the last month for the Boston Red Sox with a stomach ulcer.

The Red Sox second baseman disclosed his ailment Sunday before slamming out two singles in four trips to hold his average at .321.

Runnels found, out what had been bothering him after an examination at the clinic of Dr. George Resta, Washington Senators' team physician.

"I imagine I'll be put on a milk diet with medication and I'm sure I'll be okay," Runnels said.

PRICHARD STOPPED—John Prichard (21), Navy back, is stopped by Boston College tacklers returning the opening kickoff 20 yards in Sept. 17 game at Newton, Mass. Navy players Payne Hardison (48), Joe Bellino (27), and Douglas Falconer (67) are on ground after throwing blocks at Boston College tacklers. Boston College's Dan Sullivan (71) and Terry Glynn, right, move in to stop Prichard. Navy won, 22-7. (AP Wirephoto).

Denver Still Unbeaten In AFL Competition

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Patient Frank Filchock, a builder of champions at 43, has molded the unheralded Denver Broncos into a potent pro football aggregation with title aspirations in the Western Division of the fledgling American League.

Undaunted while his charges were pushed around in losing all five pre-season exhibitions, Filchock concentrated on providing the Denver club with a semblance of cohesion and balance by deftly analyzing his personnel, making the proper shifts and teaching his wing T offense.

With two games gone in the young AFL season, Filchock's Broncos have moved into first place in the west with an unblemished record after a 27-21 coming-from-behind triumph over the Buffalo Bills Sunday.

Johnny Pyett's 33-yard run with an intercepted pass for a fourth quarter touchdown won it for Denver and Filchock, who brewed his coaching formula in the Canadian leagues where his teams finished in the playoffs eight of nine years.

Over 15,000 turned out to see the Broncos and Bills and 20,156 were on hand as Houston's Oilers ridged the vaunted Los Angeles Chargers 38-28. Another 19,200 saw the Boston Patriots edge the New York Titans 28-24 on the final play of a Saturday night thriller.

The National League—set to inaugurate its 41st season Friday night—wound up the exhibition season with the Green Bay Packers completing a 6-0 slate by walloping winless Washington 41-7 as only 12 seconds left.

Chuck Shonta, Boston defensive specialist, scooped up a loose ball and scampered 25 yards for the winning score as time ran out. Al Dorow had passed the Titans into the lead with TD flips of 8, 16 and 38 yards and it stood up until the fatal kick play began with only 12 seconds left.

Industrial Club Meeting Is Held

W. H. McCullen, IBM program manager of management development, was the guest speaker at the Industrial Management Club supper meeting at Aiello's Restaurant, last Thursday evening. Clifford Every, club president, presided.

President Every, representing the Hercules Powder Company, had an agenda of routine business. Robert Anderson, past representative of Zone No. 4, which takes in 10 IMC groups between Kingston and Greenpoint, Brooklyn, gave a report of a special Zone meeting held in August at the Nyack YMCA. Louis H. Schafer, local YMCA executive secretary gave a word picture of the renovation work that took place at the YMCA building this summer. He invited all club members and their families to attend the grand opening or "Open House" on Tuesday, October 4. President Every then mentioned that because of the many requests for a change in meeting night that might improve attendance. A discussion to change the night from the third Thursday to the second Tuesday was tabled. The executive committee will bring in a report at the October meeting.

Mr. McCullen then gave a description of the "In the Basket" game. Many letters were received in the main office and in the absence of the firm's president, the manager or who ever received the letters had to ascertain what department should handle that particular complaint, a mistake in order, a medical claim for a shop accident and others. The group was given about 10 letters as well as a chart of plant organization and had about 25 minutes to sort the mail.

It was surprising how many men sent the letters to the same office. Some had ideas of their own and it required discussion. It was most educational and created much fun.

The Industrial Management Club is sponsored by the local YMCA an agency member of the Kingston Area Community Chest.

Extended Weather Forecast Given
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) - Here are the extended weather forecasts for New York State, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today, to 7 p. m. Saturday:

Reds Report Landing

LONDON (AP) - Moscow radio gave a speedy, favorable report today on arrival in New York of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, saying a lot of people gathered to meet him despite heavy rain. The broadcast said the pier where Khrushchev's ship docked was decorated with Soviet flags and those of East bloc countries.

In a home service broadcast within minutes of Khrushchev's arrival, the Soviet radio omitted any reference to hostile demonstrations.

Highway Fatality

James E. Williams, 22, a Dow Air Force Base airman from Poughkeepsie was killed early Sunday when the car he was riding in went out of control on a curve and rolled over on Route 191, near Machiasport, Maine, State Police report. The driver of the car was identified as Charles Lylen, also of Dow, who lives at Bucks Harbor, Maine.

Jewish Holidays Start Wednesday

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, will be observed this year by Jews throughout the world beginning at sundown Wednesday, Sept. 21, ushering in the most sacred period of the Jewish religious calendar. Ceremonies will inaugurate the year 5721, reckoned according to the lunar calendar of Jewish tradition.

The Hebrew term "Rosh Hashonah" literally means "head of the year" and marks the beginning of a ten-day period traditionally considered a time of sober introspection and spiritual self-evaluation. During this time, every Jew is asked to review his ethical conduct in the year that has passed and to promise to live up to the highest ethical principles in the year ahead.

In synagogues throughout the world religious services on Wednesday evening and Thursday will stress prayers of repentance and resolve, musical selections on these themes and rabbinical sermons urging conduct in the closest possible conformity with God's mandates.

The period of reflection and repentance, known as the Ten Days of Penitence, reaches its climax with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, beginning this year Friday evening, Sept. 30, and continuing through the following day.

On Rosh Hashanah, observed for one day by Reform Jews and for two by members of the Conservative and Orthodox branches of Judaism, the shofar (ram's horn) is sounded in the synagogue as a call to conscience. In many Jewish homes the dinner meal on Rosh Hashanah Eve includes the eating of a bit of bread dipped in honey as the symbol of the hope for a sweet year. The familiar high holiday greeting is "L'shanah tovah," meaning "for a good year."

Florence Follows Path of Donna, Not So Dangerous

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Tropical storm Florence followed her destructive sister's path westward through the Atlantic today, but she has not yet built up to Donna's dangerous proportions.

A morning bulletin from the Miami Weather Bureau placed the storm about 540 miles southeast of Miami and near Great Inagua Island in the Bahamas.

Florence's highest winds are estimated at 30 to 35 m.p.h. in a few squalls near and north of the center. Winds of 30 to 45 m.p.h. whirled out about 175 miles in the northeast semicircle. A gradual turn to the north from the westerly course is expected to take the center near the northeast coast of Cuba.

Hurricane Donna ricocheted off the Cuban coast and turned north to batter Florida and the Atlantic coast all the way to New England.

The Weather Bureau warned interests in the southeastern and central Bahamas and along the northeast and north-central coasts of Cuba to be on the alert for rising winds, rough seas and high tides.

One of America's favorite breakfasts—ham and eggs—was being served in Egypt as far back as 1500 B.C.

Rocky Predicts Nixon, Lodge Will Carry His State
TAUNTON, Mass. (AP) - Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York predicts the Nixon-Lodge ticket will carry his state and "the only question is by how much of a margin."

Rockefeller made the forecast at a news conference accompanying a testimonial dinner Sunday night for Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., R-Mass., who has 36 years in congress.

The affair, attended by some 150, was arranged by Martin's friends in recognition of his long service, including 20 years as House Republican leader and two terms as Speaker.

Martin, renominated in last week's primary, said he had considered retiring last year when he lost the leadership.

Rockefeller said in a speech that "few men were better equipped to help America change decently and responsibly in its period of greatest change than Joe Martin. He has been steadfast in the fundamental values of our way of life."

Martin in turn predicted Rockefeller's present office "is only the prelude to a greater and wider call to the public service in the years ahead."
